THE SUN ALMANAC.

THE SUN ALMANAC for 1902 presents itself to its readers in a new dress of types and with many other improvements in the mechanical make-up.

These improvements are due to the first-class equipment of The Sun Book and Job Printing Office, Calvert and Saratoga streets. The types were made on the Mergenthaler linotype machine. The pages were printed from electrotypes plates, folded by machinery and bound in the establishment.

The contents are up to twentieth-century requirements. The book is a year book for practical uses every day of the year. It is not sold, but given to all subscribers of THE SUN, Daily and Weekly.

ASTRONOMICAL CALCULATIONS FOR THE YEAR 1902,

Comprising the latter part of the 126th and the beginning of the 127th year of the independence of the United States of America.

The Astronomical Calculations in this Almanac are made for Baltimore, Md., or, more exactly, the position of Johns Hopkins University, in Long. 5 h. 6 m. 26 s. west of Greenwich and Lat. 39° 17' 48" N., and are given in Eastern Standard time (which corresponds to Long. 5 h. west of Greenwich). To express the data given in Baltimore Mean time, subtract 6 m. 26 s. from the values given.

The year 1902 corresponds to—

The year 6615 of the Julian Period.

The year 7410-7411 of the Byzantine Era, the year 7411 commencing on Sept. 1st.

The year 5662-5663 of the Jewish Era; the year 5663 commencing on October 2d, or, more exactly, at sunset on October 1st.

The year 2855 since the foundation of Rome, according to Varro.

The year 2562 of the Japanese Era, and to the 35th year of the period entitled "Meiji."

The year 1320 of the Mohammedan Era, beginning on the 10th day of April, 1902.

The first day of January of the year 1902 is the 2,415,751st day since the commencement of the Julian Period.

ECLIPSES.

In the year 1902 there will be five eclipses, three of the Sun and two of the Moon.

1. A partial Eclipse of the Sun April 8th, 9 h. 53 m. A. M.; invisible at Baltimore.

2. A total Eclipse of the Moon April 22d, 2h. 1 m. P. M.; invisible at Baltimore.

3. A partial Eclipse of the Sun May 7th, 5 h. 12 m. P. M.; invisible at Baltimore.

4. A total Eclipse of the Moon October 17th, 1 h. 10 m. A. M.; visible at Baltimore; the beginning visible generally in North and South America, and the western portions of Europe and Africa; the ending visible generally in North and South America, and the extreme northeast portions of Asia.

5. A partial Eclipse of the Sun Dec. 1st, 2 h. 28 m. A. M.; invisible at Baltimore.

COMET RECORD.

During the nineteenth century 235 new comets were discovered, as against 62 in the eighteenth century. The nineteenth century also beheld a greater number of large and brilliant comets than did its predecessor. The finest of these were the comets of 1811, 1843, 1858, 1881 and 1882. In the year 1800 only one periodical comet was known, Halley's; now many are known, of which at least 17 have been seen at more than one return to perihelion.

If the new moon appears with the points of the crescent turned up, the month will be dry; if the points are turned down, it will be wet.

If the full moon rises red, expect wind.

Enough blue sky in the northwest to make a Scotchman a jacket is a sign of approaching clear weather.

Two full moons in a calendar bring on a flood.

If the breast bone of a goose is red, or has many red spots, expect a cold and stormy winter; but if only a few spots are visible, the winter will be mild.

Early blossoms indicate a bad fruit year.

CHESAPEAKE TIDES.

The times for high water at the following places may be found for each day by adding to or subtracting from the time of high water at Baltimore (Fell's Point) the hours and minutes opposite the name of the place for which time of high water is wanted. The time of low water will, in general, be nearly half way between the preceding and following high tides.

EXAMPLE.

To find the time of high water at St. Michaels, Md., January 10th, 1902, find the time of high water at Baltimore on January 10th, which is 6h. 53m. A. M. and 7h. 30m. P. M.; from these times subtract 2h. 37m., as found in the above table, and we have 4h. 16m. A. M. and 4h. 53m. P. M. as the times of high water at St. Michaels on that day.

If on Candlemas day, second of February, it is bright and clear the ground hog will stay in its den, thus indicating that more snow and cold are to come; but if it snows or rains he will creep out, as the winter is ended.

Cut a snowball in halves; if it is wet inside, the snow will pass off with rain; if it is dry inside, the snow will be melted by the sun.

The bear comes out on the second of February, and if he sees his shadow he returns for six weeks.

Don't plant your corn when the turtle dove cries.

When fowls roost in daytime, expect rain.

Pigeons return home unusually early before rain.

Quails are more abundant during an easterly wind.

First robins indicate the approach of spring.

If crows fly south, a severe winter may be expected; if they fly north, the reverse.

Two currents of clouds indicate approaching rain, and in summer thunder.

THE ZODIAC.

The apparent path of the sun in the heavens is along an ecliptic, which is inclined $23^{\circ} 27'$ to the celestial equator. A belt 16° wide, 8° on each side of the ecliptic, within which are comprised the path of the moon and all of the planets known to the ancients, is known as the zodiac. This belt is divided into the twelve signs of the zodiac, each 30° in length. The first of these signs begins at the point when the sun's path crosses the equator (when moving north in the spring) and is known as the sign of Aries, and the point of crossing is known as the vernal or spring equinox. The point when the sun's path crosses the equator when returning south in the fall is known as the autumnal equinox, and is the beginning of the sign Libra.

The zodiacal signs and the times when the sun enters each are as follows:

♈ Aries, the Ram. March 21, 2 P. M.
 ♉ Taurus, the Bull. April 20, 2 P. M.
 ♊ Gemini, the Twins. May 21, 2 P. M.
 ♋ Cancer, the Crab. June 21, 10 P. M.
 ♌ Leo, the Lion. July 23, 9 A. M.
 ♍ Virgo, the Virgin. Aug. 23, 4 P. M.
 ♎ Libra, the Balance. Sept. 23, 1 P. M.
 ♏ Scorpio, the Scorpion. Oct. 23, 10 P. M.

♐ Sagittarius, the Archer. November 22, 7 P. M.
 ♑ Capricornus, the Goat. December 22, 7 A. M.
 ♒ Aquarius, the Water-Carrier. January 20, 12 M.
 ♓ Pisces, the Fishes. February 19, 3 A. M.

DAYS AND YEARS.

The Astronomical day is counted from Oh. to 24h., whereas the Civil day is divided into two equal parts, of twelve hours each, the first part being designated by A. M. and the latter part by P. M.

A Calendar month varies from 28 to 31 days. A Mean Lunar month is 29 days, 12 hours, 44 minutes and 2.7 seconds. The Sidereal year is the time it takes for the sun to return to the same apparent place in the heavens, and represents the earth's true orbital revolution around the sun; but it is not used as the year of chronology and the calendar, because the seasons depend upon the sun's place in relation to the equinoxes, or the earth's equator. Consequently, the year used is the time it takes the sun to return to the vernal equinox, or the point where the sun crosses the Equator in the spring. This is called the Tropical year and is 365 days 5 hours 48 minutes and 46 seconds of mean solar time; the Sidereal year being 365 days 6 hours 9 minutes and 9 seconds.

Another year is the Lunar year, or year of twelve lunar months. This is the year of the Mohammedans and Jews. The length of this year is 354 days 8 hours and 48 minutes. The Jews, however, add an extra month every third year to make their year correspond more closely with the seasons than it would do otherwise.

In the year 45 B. C., Julius Cæsar reformed the calendar by introducing an extra day every four years. In 1582 Pope Gregory ordered that the calendar be further corrected by setting back all dates by 10 days and that century years be not made leap years, unless divisible by 400.

The reform instituted by Gregory has not been introduced by Russia and Greece.

The Tropical or Solar year is 365 days 5 hours 48 minutes 45-51 seconds; the Julian year 365 days 6 hours, while the Gregorian year is 365 days 5 hours 49 minutes and 12 seconds long.

SHOT TOWER OF BALTIMORE.

The shot tower at the corner of Fayette and Front streets, Baltimore, said to be the finest specimen of brick work on this continent, and perhaps in the world, was built in 1828 and 1,100,000 bricks were used in its construction. It was carried to the height of 240 feet for dropping shot, a method of manufacture no longer practiced. The tower is 220 feet high above the pavement and has a foundation 17 feet deep, resting upon solid rock. This gave it the rare and important advantage of being absolutely free from vibration, except during the heaviest gales, when the maximum vibration at the highest floor did not exceed four inches. This absence of vibration was essential to the perfection of the shot. The walls were built entirely from within, no outside scaffolding having been used. They are 6 feet thick at the base of the tower, tapering off to 18 inches at the top. The diameter at the base is 40 feet and at the top 20 feet. The top is reached by a spiral stairway of 310 steps. The largest sizes of shot were dropped from the highest floor, while the smaller sizes were dropped from the middle floor. The utmost capacity of the tower was 500,000 bags of shot a year by the old process.

Early frosts are generally followed by a long and hard winter.

If the hair of a horse grows long early, expect an early winter.

In March much snow.

To plants and trees much woe.

Blackbirds bring healthy weather.

So many mists in March we see,
 So many frosts in May shall be.

For wheat a peck of dust in March is worth a king's ransom;
 Or wet and soddy, the land
 Must go to oats and corn.

Expect rain when dogs eat grass.

EQUINOX AND ALMANACS.

It seems to perplex not a few people to see nothing in the almanac figures of the rising and setting of the sun, at times of the vernal and autumnal equinoxes, to show that the days and nights are equal, according to what the books on astronomy assert all over the world. To explain this apparent discrepancy between the assertion of the books and the almanac figures, it is necessary to say that in calculating the times of the rising and setting of the sun two things are taken into account, viz., refraction and the semi-diameter of the sun. If the sun were a mere point and there were no refraction, the sun, at the exact time, when in his apparent annual motion north and south of the equator, or to employ a technical term, in his motion in declination, reaches the equator, would exactly rise at 6 A. M. and set at 6 P. M. Rays of light in passing through the air have their direction changed, so that, as the direction in which we see a celestial body is that in which its light reaches the eye, it plainly follows that this refraction displaces those bodies and makes them appear higher in the sky. While the refraction is zero in the zenith, it is largest at the horizon, amounting there to no less than 34'. Add to this 16', the mean semi-diameter of the sun, we have, in calculating the times of his rising and setting, to deal with the side of a spherical triangle, that is 90° 50' instead of 90°. The horizontal refraction is always somewhat greater than the diameter of the sun, and consequently, at the moment when the sun's lower limb appears to be just rising, the disk is actually below the horizon, and the time of sunrise in our latitudes is thus accelerated from two to four minutes. Since for the same reason sunset is delayed by the same amount, the day is lengthened by refraction alone from four to eight minutes, at the expense of the night. We must not omit to mention that the apparent time of the rising and setting of the sun must be corrected for the so-called equation of time to give the mean, or local, time, and as the astronomical calculations of The Sun Almanac are reduced to Eastern standard time, another correction must be made for this also. All this makes the day, that is, the appearance of the sun above the horizon, at the times of the equinoxes, a few minutes greater than the period of the absence of the sun below the horizon, or the night.

TIME STANDARDS.

The railroads of the country, with the object of escaping the inconveniences resulting from the numerous and conflicting standards of time employed on their various lines, adopted in April and carried into effect on November 18, 1883, a scheme devised by Mr. W. F. Allen, Secretary of the Railroad Time Convention, by which the surface of the United States is divided into four "time belts," extending north and south indefinitely, and having a width east and west each of fifteen degrees. The time of each belt is fixed by the meridian which traverses its center; all points east and west of this standard meridian, within a given belt, surrendering their local for the standard meridian time.

The meridians taken as standards are the 75th, for Eastern time; the 90th, for Central time; the 105th, for Mountain time; the 120th, for Pacific time. Four standards of time, each varying from another by an even hour, are thus substituted for the fifty-odd previously in use. Thus, when it is noon by Eastern time, it is 11 A. M. by Central, 10 A. M. by Mountain, and 9 A. M. by Pacific time.

Railroads as far east as the eastern border of Maine and as far west as the western border of Pennsylvania are governed by the time of the 75th meridian, which is about the same as that of Philadelphia; those operated within the wide area included between a line drawn through Pittsburg, Pa., and Augusta, Ga., on the one hand, and Bismarck, Dakota, and Laredo, Texas, on the other, are governed by the 90th meridian, which passes near New Orleans; those between the western line last named and the western borders of Montana, Utah and Arizona are governed by the 105th meridian, which passes through Denver, Col., and all lines west of those just mentioned are governed by the 120th meridian, or Pacific time, which passes through Reno, Nev. The changes from one hour standard to another, are made at the terminal of roads or at the ends of divisions. Persons traveling will need to set their watches afresh only when they pass from one "time belt" to another.

As the whole Mississippi and Ohio Valleys have Central time only, the convenience of one uniform standard will be specially appreciated by their inhabitants. Not only the railroads, but the Federal, State and City Governments, the Signal Service, and other similar agencies of a scientific or practical character, have adopted the standards, of which the 75th meridian, as being the starting point for all the rest, was made the principal. It is exactly five hours slower than Greenwich time. Baltimore, by the new standard gained 6 min., 28. sec., New York city lost 4, Boston 16 and Chicago 9. No point, however, within a time belt can in observing standard time, be more than 30 minutes out of correct local time.

WEATHER FLAG SIGNALS.

No. 1, white flag, indicates clear or fair weather.

No. 2, blue flag, indicates rain or snow.

No. 3, a black triangular flag, always refers to temperature. When placed above the white or blue flags, it indicates warmer weather, and when placed below them, it indicates colder weather.

Thus, flags displayed as shown on the margin would indicate "warmer, fair weather, followed by rain or snow," the triangular flag at the top meaning warmer; the white, fair; the blue, rain or snow. When the triangular flag is not shown, the indications are that the temperature will remain stationary, or that it will not vary 5 degrees from the temperature of the same hour of the preceding day.

No. 4, white flag, with black square in the centre, indicates the approach of a sudden and decided fall in temperature. This signal is usually ordered at least twenty-four hours in advance of the cold wave. It is not displayed unless a temperature of 45 degrees or less is expected.

No. 5 indicates local rains. It consists of two horizontal parallel bars of white and blue, the white uppermost.

The storm signal is a red flag with a black square in the center. When displayed it indicates that a storm of marked violence is expected. Pennants displayed with the storm signal indicate the direction of the wind: Red, easterly (from north-east to south); white, westerly (from south-west to north). The pennant above the flag indicates that the wind is expected to blow from the northerly quadrant; below, from the southerly quadrant.

HURRICANE SIGNAL.

The hurricane signal consists of two red flags with black centers, displayed one above the other. The flags are the same as those used for the distinctive storm signal, the pennants being omitted. The hurricane signal is used to announce the expected approach of tropical hurricanes, and also of severe and dangerous storms, which occasionally move across the lakes and the northern Atlantic coast.

Shipmasters are requested, whenever they see hurricane signals displayed at any of these points, to hoist their own flags, and they should as soon as possible thereafter seek information from the nearest Weather Bureau office as to the location and probable duration of the storm. This information will guide them as to the time their signals should remain displayed, otherwise the flags, as a rule, should be lowered within twenty-four hours from the time of hoisting.

COLD WAVE AND FROST.

The display of the cold wave flag (white flag with a black square in center) indicates that there will be a sudden and decided fall in temperature, amounting to 16 degrees or more, depending on the locality of the particular station. The warnings are usually issued for a period of twenty-four hours in advance of the anticipated cold wave or frost.

MEDALS FOR HEROISM.

Merchants' Medals Awarded to Firemen of Baltimore for Heroic Acts in Saving Life

Marion L. Sunderland, pipeman, of Fire Engine Company No. 1.

Frederick W. Johnston, tillerman, of Hook-and-Ladder Company No. 2.

These presentations were made through Mayor Thomas G. Hayes, June 26, 1901, for the rescue by the recipients, at the risk of their own lives, of two men who were overcome by gas in an electric subway manhole June 5, 1901.

Other Baltimore firemen who have received the Merchants' Medal for saving lives are as follows:

Captain G. W. Foxwell, Truck Company No. 3.

Captain Andrew W. German, Engine Company No. 5.

Louis Laux, tillerman, No. 3 Truck Company.

R. J. Disney, ladderman, No. 1 Truck Company.

All for saving life in the collapse of a building on South Gay street, May 30, 1884.

Chief William C. McAfee, for the rescue of Mrs. Roscoe Heath from a burning dwelling house on Mt. Royal avenue March 24, 1895.

Joseph Daley, ladderman in No. 1 Truck Company, rescue of W. L. Sta from 310 West Pratt street, November 12, 1897.

Lieut. Franklin A. Teal, No. 6 Truck Company, rescue of Watchman J. Brattan from burning building at 10th and Race streets.

A dry May and a leaking June
Make the farmer whistle a merry tune.

A late spring is a great blessing.

A good nut year, a good corn year.

Fishermen in anger froth
When the wind is in the north;
For fish bite the best
When the wind's in the west.
Fish bite the least
With the wind in the east.

If Christmas finds a bridge, he'll break it; if he finds none, he'll make one.

So far as the sun shines on Christmas day,

So far will the snow blow in May.

When the snow falls dry it means to lie;
But flakes, light and soft, bring rain off.
When now in the ditch the snow doth lie,
'Tis waiting for more by and by.

LEGAL HOLIDAYS IN MARYLAND.

Under Act of Assembly, 1890, Ch. 238 (see Code Public General Laws, Article 13, Section 9), the following days have been established in Maryland as Bank Holidays:

1. New Year's day, January 1.
2. Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.
3. Decoration day, May 30.
4. Independence day, July 4.
5. Christmas day, December 25.
6. Good Friday.
7. General election day.
8. Congressional election day.

9. All special days that may be appointed or recommended by the Governor of this State or the President of the United States as days of thanksgiving, fasting and prayer, or other religious observances, or for the general cessation of business.

10. Sundays.

LABOR'S HOLIDAY.

Labor's Holiday, first Monday in September.

By an act of the Congress of the United States, approved June 28, 1894, it was enacted that the first Monday of September in each year, being the day celebrated and known as Labor's Holiday, was made a legal public holiday, to all intents and purposes, in the same manner as Christmas, the First day of January, the Twenty-second day of February, the Thirtieth day of May and the Fourth day of July are by law public holidays.

The Governor of Maryland, by virtue of authority vested in him under Article 13, Section 9, of the Code, may declare and proclaim the first Monday in September a legal holiday, and recommend its observance by the general cessation of business.

DEFENDERS' DAY.

September 12, known as "Defenders' Day," is a municipal holiday in Baltimore city, in memory of the successful resistance of British invasion in 1814. Under Article 13, Section 9, of the Code, the Governor may declare September 12 a legal or bank holiday by proclamation, and recommend its observance as such throughout the State of Maryland.

SATURDAY HALF HOLIDAYS.

Saturday half-holiday laws are in force in the following places:

- Annapolis, Act of 1894, Ch. 167.
- Baltimore city, Act of 1898, Ch. 198.
- Baltimore co., Act of 1898, Ch. 152.
- Harford co., Act of 1898, Ch. 154.
- Montgomery co., Act of 1898, Ch. 366.
- Cecil co., Act of 1900, Ch. 87.

Bills, drafts, checks, notes, etc., maturing on any half-holiday Saturday shall be payable on the succeeding secular or business day.

Days of grace were abolished in Maryland by Act of 1896, Ch. 106, except under stipulated agreement.

REPUDIATION DAY.

The General Assembly of 1894 made November 23 a bank half holiday in Frederick county, under the title of "Repudiation Day," in commemoration of the repudiation of the stamp act in 1765.

ARBOR DAY.

By resolution of the General Assembly of 1894, the Governor of Maryland is authorized to designate by proclamation one day in April, every year, for tree planting, to be known as "Arbor Day."

TO LIVE ONE HUNDRED YEARS.

These are Sir John Sawyer's 19 rules for living 100 years:

1. Eight hours' sleep.
2. Sleep on your right side.
3. Keep your bedroom window open all night.
4. Have a mat to your bedroom door.
5. Do not have your bedstead against the wall.
6. No cold water in the morning, but a bath at the temperature of the body.
7. Exercise before breakfast.
8. Eat little meat, and see that it is well cooked.

9. For adults. Drink no milk.
10. Eat plenty of rat to feed the cells which destroy disease germs.
11. Avoid intoxicants, which destroy those cells.
12. Daily exercise in the open air.
13. Allow no pet animals in your living rooms.
14. Live in the country if you can.
15. Watch the three D's—drinking-water, damp, drains.
16. Have change of occupation.
17. Take frequent and short holidays.
18. Limit your ambition.
19. Keep your temper.

CRISPI, THE ITALIAN STATESMAN.

Francesco Crispi, the Italian statesman, who died 11th August, 1901, at Naples, was born at Rivera, in Sicily, in October, 1819. He was actively identified with the struggles of the Italian people for liberation from foreign rule and for the establishment of United Italy, both of which he aided greatly to accomplish. In 1848 he took a prominent part in the insurrection in Palermo. He also figured conspicuously as one of the leaders of the Sicilians in their revolt against King Ferdinand I. In 1859 and 1860 he co-operated with Garibaldi in the expulsion of the Bourbons from Sicily. In consequence of the victories of Garibaldi and the general uprising of Italian patriots at that time, nearly all of Italy was liberated and united. The Kingdom of the Two Sicilies was annexed to the new Kingdom of Italy. Count Cavour's long-cherished ambition was realized after stormy internal commotions and foreign complications. For the political consolidation of Italy Crispi labored heart and soul. Cavour was the first Prime Minister of the new Kingdom of Italy. He died in 1861, while Premier of the united Italy which his genius had done much to establish. Crispi survived him 40 years, and in that period was twice Prime Minister of Italy.

In 1894 the bank scandal obliged his retirement from the premiership, but in 1896 he was re-elected to the Chamber of Deputies, and in 1898 a special commission, which made exhaustive inquiry into the scandal, reported that while Crispi was not guilty of any criminal offense known to the law, he was deserving of political censure for certain irregular practices on his part. Thus the charges against him collapsed and he went into retirement. He was three times married. The first wife died; he was separated from the second wife, whom he married when he was 34 years old and a political prisoner in Turin; the third was an attractive young widow whom he met in 1872 at a reception in Turin. It is related that irregularity in this connection caused Queen Margherita to except Madame Crispi in inviting the ministers and their wives to a dinner after Crispi had become Premier, and that he sent word to her, through her secretary, "that if by evening Madame Crispi is not treated like the wives of the other Ministers, the Republic will be proclaimed in Italy within 24 hours."

Madame Crispi got the invitation.

A NEW STAR.

In February, 1901, Nova Persei, a new star in the constellation of Perseus, near the Milky Way, discovered by Rev. Dr. T. D. Anderson, of Edinburgh, attracted great attention by its sudden outburst of light. On February 19 it was a small speck of light, invisible to the unaided eye, but in a few days it flamed up into a star of nearly the first magnitude, and as suddenly began to decrease in brightness. The rapid increase of brilliancy is variously explained, the theory of Mr. G. P. Serviss in the New York Journal being that it is due to the star's plunging into a cloud of gas or meteors. A vast meteoric display is what happened, it was supposed, about Nova Persei, but the distance is such that its mass seems for a time to be enlarged. The distance is inconceivable—six million times our distance from the sun. So remote is Nova Persei that the illumination occurred ninety-eight years ago, nearly a century having been required for the swiftly moving light to reach us. Sound moves more slowly and requires an atmosphere for its transmission. If there were an atmosphere between us and Nova Persei, we should need to wait 87,000,000 years to hear the crash caused by the strange star's collision with a meteoric world. Such is the distance that, even at the greater velocity with which it is supposed to be moving, it would, if coming our way, require 80,000 years to arrive.

Interest was added to the appearance of the star in Perseus by the conjecture that it is the bright star seen by Tycho north of Cassiopeia in 1572. That star flashed out brilliantly and then disappeared, and Kepler, in 1604, saw a like phenomenon at a point of the heavens not far removed. Nova Persei is not, it is true, exactly where astronomical calculations would place Tycho's star, but, supposing it to be moving in an orbit of great diameter, an interval of over 300 years might be expected to alter its position materially.

ELECTRIC POWER.

Great progress has been made in power transmission by electricity since the plant in the San Bernardino Mountains, California, began two and a half years ago to send power a distance of 80 miles to Los Angeles. Now a plant on the Upper Yuba river, in California, sends power by wire over a distance of 184 miles to San Jose. The current is from 40,000 to 60,000 volts. The current sent to Oakland goes 142 miles.

MRS. NATION'S HATCHET CRUSADE.

During the winter of 1901 Mrs. Carrie Nation, "an elderly woman with a mission," carried on an extensive crusade in Kansas against saloons where liquor was dispensed in violation of the prohibition laws of the State. Armed with a hatchet, she went into these places, called "joints," and smashed the costly barroom fixtures, the glassware, mirrors and bottles, and set the liquor to running out into the gutters. Various attempts were made to check her in these raids from town to town, but the law did not recognize saloons or intoxicating liquors as property, and she enjoyed practical immunity for a time. Though arrested frequently and imprisoned, she had to be released, and went on with her career of destruction, enlisting other women in the crusade until there was not a single saloon-keeper in Kansas who did not fear an attack from her. Not only this, she forced the officers of the law to activity. She went to the Governor of the State and demanded that he should enforce the law prohibiting the sale of liquor. The interview was an exciting incident. She accused the Executive of failure to execute a law he had sworn to uphold. By this and other extreme measures a profound impression was made throughout the country.

The "hatchet crusade," as it was called, began December 26, 1900, when Mrs. Nation wrecked the finest saloon in Wichita, at the Carey Hotel. She had previously warned the saloon-keepers of her intention, and had pleaded with them to close, but she was not taken seriously.

Medicine Lodge was full of "joints" in 1893, when Mrs. Nation moved there. She tried moral suasion, but it didn't accomplish results. After finding the futility of argument, she armed herself with a hatchet and went from saloon to saloon "killing snakes," as she termed it, playing havoc with furniture and liquors. Kiowa, which is also in Barber county, 20 miles south of Medicine Lodge, on the Oklahoma border, was visited, and not a whole liquor bottle was left in the town. Then Mrs. Nation rested from her crusade for six years.

The damage done in December, 1900, when she resumed her war on saloons, amounted to about $2,000. She was arrested and was kept in jail for several weeks. She was finally released unconditionally, the "jointists" being unwilling or afraid to have the case taken into the courts. After her release she gathered a few women sympathizers and "smashed" several more saloons. They then went to Enterprise, Hope and other Kansas towns wrecking saloons in each place, landing at last in Topeka, where a great deal of damage was done.

Dropping the crusade for a time, Mrs. Nation went to Kansas City, Des Moines and Chicago on a lecturing tour. In February she turned up in Topeka to answer charges in the City Court of defacing property. Judge McCabe was obliged to order her release. On Sunday, February 17, she and a party of women wrecked several places, including a storage warehouse. The storage firm petitioned Judge Hazen, in the District Court, to place her under a $2,000 peace bond, which he did. She refused to accept offers of friends to secure her release and went to jail, but was not held long.

Mrs. Nation is a Kentuckian by birth. Her first husband was Dr. Gloyd, of Missouri, who died and left her penniless, with a child to support. She taught school for a while and then married David Nation. She is 54 years old and is president of the Barber County Women's Christian Temperance Union. She and her husband at one time lived in Texas. In the summer of 1901 she went, under management, on a lecture tour in the East, and was in Baltimore August 27-28.

FREE LIBRARY, WASHINGTON COUNTY.

On the 28th of August, 1901, the Washington County Free Library, founded at Hagerstown by Mr. Benjamin F. Newcomer, was opened. The building is a handsome two-story structure of Indiana limestone and classical style of architecture, made fireproof and with a capacity for 40,000 volumes. The cost of the building was $25,000, exclusive of the ground. The lot, estimated to be worth from $15,000 to $20,000, was given by Mr. Edward W. Mealey. An endowment of $50,000 was given by Mr. B. F. Newcomer, of Baltimore. Washington county and the town of Hagerstown together contributed $2,500 a year toward the support of the library, and this was the condition upon which Mr. Newcomer made the endowment, well invested in 5 per cent. securities.

The trustees of the library were incorporated by the Legislature in 1898. They are:

Edward W. Mealey, president.
John W. Stonebraker.
William Kealhofer.
William Updegraff.
Elias Emmert.
Rev. Dr. J. Spangler Keiffer.
George C. Pearson.
Librarian—Mary L. Titcomb.

Observe on what day in August the first heavy fog occurs, and you may expect a hard frost on the same day in October.

When it rains in August, it rains honey and wine.

A fog in August indicates a severe winter and plenty of snow.

Bearded frost is a forerunner of snow.

Heavy white frost indicates warmer weather.

If ice crack much, expect frost to continue.

Past the Easter frost and fruit is safe.

GREAT FIRE AT JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA.

On Friday, May 3, 1901, the city of Jacksonville, Fla., experienced a disastrous conflagration, which reduced over 1,300 houses to ashes, rendered 10,000 people homeless and destroyed property valued at $12,000,000. The fire began about midday, was not under control before midnight and continued to burn all the following day.

The conflagration originated in a fibre factory from a bit of wire accidentally getting into a shredding machine and communicating sparks to the inflammable material. A very high wind prevailed, and the gale carried burning brands with great rapidity over the fairest part of the city, involving over 130 blocks of buildings in destruction. Ordinary fire apparatus, and hardly the use of dynamite to blow up houses, could check the rapid progress of the flames. Flying fire was carried by the strong wind so rapidly that sparks and burning shingles were showered over the roofs of five or six blocks of houses at a time.

The burned area extended east and west about two miles and north and south varying from one-half to three-quarters of a mile. In this area was situated the oldest and most populous portion of the city, embracing all classes of people, high and low, rich and poor. The flames carried before them homes, churches and public buildings.

Within the large area burned was nearly all of old Jacksonville, the recently built suburbs being spared. The area of large business houses and handsome residences was entirely swept. The area was bounded by St. John's river on the south, Catherine street on the east, Orange street on the north and Davis street on the west. It was at the corner of Davis and Union street that the fire began, and the wind was from the southwest. Among the principal buildings destroyed were six hotels, the city hall and other municipal buildings, the Windsor Hotel, County Building, St. John's House, the jail, Catholic church, convent, and St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church.

A number of persons lost their lives. The military was ordered out at night to guard household goods piled high on vacant lots. The police were armed with carbines to prevent looting. For several days after the fire as many as 6,000 destitute people had to be fed by the Relief Association, which was promptly organized. Help quickly began to pour in from all parts of the country, in the shape of money, clothing, and provisions by whole trainloads.

FIRE RECORD OF AMERICAN CITIES.

The United States has a record of destruction of property by fire not equalled by any other country.

Charlestown, Mass., in 1838, 1,158 buildings.

Savannah, Ga., in 1820, 463 buildings and $4,000,000 value.

New York, in 1835, 530 buildings, 52 acres burned over, and $15,000,000 of property destroyed; in 1845, 300 acres burned over, $7,500,000 value, 35 lives lost.

Pittsburg, Pa., in 1845, 100 buildings, $1,000,000 property value.

St. Louis, Mo., in 1849, 15 buildings, $3,000,000 value; in 1851, 2,500 buildings destroyed.

Philadelphia, in 1850, 400 buildings. San Francisco, in 1851, 2,500 buildings, and a number of lives lost; property value, $10,000,000.

Portland, Maine, in 1866, over one-half the city: 200 acres burned over and 1,743 buildings destroyed.

Chicago, in 1871, known as the "Great Fire," 2,124 acres nearly covered by buildings entirely burned over, including 17,430 buildings; many lives were lost and property value of upward of $106,000,000 was destroyed.

Boston, in 1872; 65 acres of mercantile section burned, including 776 buildings, nearly all of brick and stone construction; property value, $75,000,000.

Baltimore, July 25, 1873; Clay, Park and Saratoga street fire destroyed 2 churches, 100 houses, large and small; property valued at over $500,000.

In June, 1889, Seattle was destroyed, the loss being $30,000,000. Two months later Spokane Falls burned, the loss being $7,000,000. In November of the same year $5,000,000 worth of property was consumed at Lynn, Mass. Within a few days fire broke out in the dry goods district of Boston and property valued at $6,000,000 was burned.

In October, 1892, a fire at Milwaukee caused a loss of $6,000,000.

Hoboken, N. J., June 30, 1900; the North German Lloyd piers and steamships sustained a loss of $10,000,000, and 200 lives were lost.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 3, 1901; over 130 blocks, including 1,300 houses, 6 hotels and all the public buildings, were destroyed; 10,000 people made homeless and property losses estimated at $12,000,000 to $15,000,000.

These are the greatest fires that have occurred in this country. There have been many in which the losses exceeded a million, and many others exceeding half a million.

If there be a damp fog or mist, accompanied by wind, expect rain.

With dew before midnight,
The next day will sure be bright.

When clouds are on the hills
They'll come down by the mills.

A sunflower raising its head indicates rain.

When bees remain in their hives or fly but a short distance, expect rain.

Wasps in great numbers and busy indicate fair and warm weather.

Plant garden beans when the sign is in the scales; they will hang full.

When the ash leaves come out before the oak, expect a wet season.

When the bushes are full of berries a hard winter is on the way.

When beechnuts are plenty, expect a mild winter.

BENJAMIN HARRISON,

Benjamin Harrison, twenty-third President of the United States, died in Indianapolis 13th of March, 1901, aged 67 years. He was the grandson of William Henry Harrison, ninth President of the United States. He was a lawyer of fine ability, and possessed many of the qualities of true statesmanship. His convictions were strong, and while in the main in sympathy with the Republican party, which elected him President, he was capable of independence of thought and action upon occasion. When the Republican party became the champion of the colonial policy, after his retirement from the Presidency, he did not hesitate to express his dissent. He did not approve of the policy of his party in regard to the war in South Africa. He was in sympathy with all weak countries striving to achieve independence or to maintain it, and he could not understand how any American could assume any other attitude. He was resolutely opposed to an alliance between the United States and any foreign power. His Americanism was of the best and most wholesome type. He held tenaciously to the principles formulated by the founders of the Republic and believed in the Constitution. He was a partisan at times, but while President he tolerated no dictation from the politicians of his party.

LEADING EVENTS IN EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON'S LIFE.

1833—Born at North Bend, Ohio, August 20; son of John Scott Harrison and grandson of William Henry Harrison, President of the United States.

1851—Graduated from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

1853—Married to Caroline Lavinia Scott.

1854—Began the practice of law in Indianapolis.

1860—Elected (Republican) reporter of the Supreme Court of Indiana.

1862—Raised a company of Indiana volunteers for the Union Army; was successively promoted until he became brigadier-general.

1864—Re-elected reporter in 1864 and declined re-election in 1868.

1876—Unsuccessful Republican candidate for Governor of Indiana.

1881—Took a seat in the United States Senate, holding it until 1887.

1888—Elected President of the United States on the Republican ticket, receiving 233 votes in the Electoral College against 168 for Grover Cleveland.

1892—Renominated for the Presidency and defeated by Grover Cleveland, who received 277 Electoral votes, against 145 for Harrison and 22 for J. B. Weaver, Populist.

1896—His first wife having died, he married her niece, Mrs. Mary Scott Lord Dimmock.

1899—Counsel for the Venezuelan Government before the arbitration tribunal to settle the boundary dispute with Great Britain.

1900—Appointed by President McKinley a member of the International court of Arbitration at The Hague.

1901—Died at Indianapolis, March 13.

QUEEN OF THE NETHERLANDS.

Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, who was married to Prince Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin on February 7, 1901, succeeded to the throne on her father's death, in November, 1890. In 1898, when she was 18 years old, she assumed actual power after the regency of her mother, Queen Emma.

Exceedingly fond of outdoor life and amusements, she is a familiar figure to the loyal Hollanders—skating along the canals in the national fashion, tending her tulips or witnessing the maneuvers of her troops, leading her staff on horseback. At provincial and agricultural shows and among the fisher folk of the Zuyder Zee she captivated all hearts by her natural affability.

Prince Henry, of course, became his wife's naturalized subject. Many of the difficulties which beset in similar circumstances Prince Albert, the prince consort of the late Queen Victoria, in England, are unlikely to rise in the present instance, as the only members of the house of Orange nearly related to the Queen are the two Princes of Saxe-Weimar, who are rarely in the Netherlands, although they are the next heirs to the throne.

Prince Henry was 25 years old April 10, 1901. He belongs to the ducal line of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, the little grand duchy on the northeast coast of the German Empire, the ruling house of which claims to be the oldest sovereign house in the Western world. The grandfather of the present Grand Duke, Frederick-Francis, married three times. Prince Henry is the youngest child of the third marriage, and consequently bears the relationship of an uncle to the reigning Grand Duke. Like his brother Adolf, a dashing cavalry officer of the Prussian guard at Berlin, Prince Henry is closely attached to the German court, holding the commission of a lieutenant in the Chasseur battalion of the Prussian guard stationed at Potsdam.

Warm in October, cold February.

Three days of September (20, 21, 22) rule the weather for October, November and December.

Spiders strengthening their webs indicate rain.

When deer are in gray coat in October, expect a severe winter.

Full moon in October without frost, no frost till full moon in November.

Snow is the poor man's fertilizer, and good crops will follow a winter of heavy snowfall.

When you see a cloud rise out of the west, straightway ye say, there cometh a shower, and so it is. (Luke xii, 54.)

CENTRE OF POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES.

The center of population of the United States, excluding Alaska and the recent accessions of territory on June 1, 1900, was in Latitude.....39° 9' 38"

Longitude.....85° 48' 54" moved westward 16' 1", or about 14 miles, and southward 2' 20", or about miles, and southward 2' 20", or about 2½ miles. It rests now in Southern Indiana, at a point about 6 miles southeast of Columbus, the county seat of Bartholomew county, Indiana. The closeness with which the center of population, through its rapid westward movement, has clung to the parallel of 39° of latitude is noteworthy. The following table shows the position of the center from 1790 to 1900, together with the number of miles of westward movement during each decade:

If there be ice in November that will bear a duck,
There will be nothing thereafter but sleet and muck.

You may shear your sheep
When the elder blossoms peep.

If the cock moult before the hen
We shall have weather thick and thin;
But if the hen moult before the cock
We shall have weather hard as a block.

Wild geese, wild geese, going to the sea,
Good weather it will be;
Wild geese, wild geese, going to the hill,
The weather it will spill.

When roosters go crowing to bed,
They will rise with watery head.
North and south, the sign of drought,
East and west, the sign of blast.

If cranes appear early in autumn, expect a severe winter.

THE FLAGS OF OUR COUNTRY.

June 14 is not a national or legal holiday, but the anniversary of the creation of the United States flag by the Continental Congress, June 14, 1777. At first the flag had 13 stripes and 13 stars, and it so remained until the year 1795. The war of 1812-14 was fought under the flag of 15 stripes and 15 stars. In 1818 the stripes were reduced to the original 13, and provision was made for adding a star for each State admitted to the Union. The number of States and stars now is 45. The flag called the "great union," first raised by Washington at Cambridge January 2, 1776, had 13 alternate red and white stripes and the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew.

It was not until the summer of 1882 that a distinctive Presidential flag was adopted by the navy, when a general order was issued as follows: "The flag of the President of the United States shall consist of a blue ground with the arms of the United States in the center, and shall be of the dimensions prescribed for the Admiral's flag No. 1 (10.2x14.4 feet). The flag shall be hoisted at the main of vessels of war while the President is on board, and shall be carried in the bow of his boat."

The Secretary of the Navy also has a distinctive flag, consisting of a blue ground with four white stars and an anchor. The Admiral's flag consists of a blue ground with four white stars; the Vice-Admiral's flag has three and the Rear-Admiral's two stars.

The first Star-Spangled Banner to command the respect of Europe on the high seas was that ordained by Congress June 14, 1777, which Commodore Paul Jones hoisted on the Ranger, and which went down with the Bon Homme Richard after the capture of the Serapis. The decree of Congress ordaining the flag is intimately associated with the great fame and name of John Paul Jones, for his appointment to command the ship of war Ranger is coupled with the creation of the flag itself. Two resolutions of Congress, thus linked together in a simultaneous act, were as follows:

Resolved, That the flag of the 13 United States of America be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be 13 stars in a blue field, representing a New Constellation.

Resolved, That Capt. Paul Jones be appointed to command the ship Ranger. Paul Jones was accustomed to say: "The flag and I are twins; born the same hour and from the same womb of destiny."

Paul Jones sailed under the Stars and Stripes from Portsmouth, N. H., November 1, 1777, in the Ranger for France. He carried dispatches announcing the surrender of Burgoyne. He landed at Nantes December 2, 32 days out. The news he bore insured the Franco-American alliance and the ultimate delivery of the struggling colonies from British rule.

The "unconquered and unmistakable" flag which Jones carried on the Ranger and which went down with the Bon Homme Richard, was made by the girls of Portsmouth, N. H., from their best silk gowns, and presented to the commander to hoist on the Ranger July 4, 1777. On relinquishing the command of the Ranger in 1778 he kept this flag and used it at l'Orient when he "broke his pennant," as the nautical phrase has it, to commission the Bon Homme Richard. It was made by a "quilting party" according to the specifications furnished by Jones. The 13 stars in the "New Constellation" were cut from the bridal dress in which Helen Seavey had been married in May, 1777, to a young officer of the New Hampshire line.

This was the first edition of the Stars and Stripes that Europe ever saw; the first to be saluted by the guns of a European naval power; but, far beyond that, and beyond anything, it was the first and last flag that ever went down, or ever will go down, flying on the ship that conquered and captured the ship that sunk her.

When Paul Jones returned in the Ariel to Philadelphia in 1781 he said that his most ardent desire had been to bring that flag home to America, with all its glories, and give it back untarnished into the fair hands that had given it to him nearly four years before.

"But," he said to the lady to whom he was speaking (Miss Mary Langdon, one of the makers of the flag), "Miss Mary, I couldn't bear to strip it from the poor old ship in her last agony nor could I deny to my dead on her decks and who gave their lives to keep it flying, the glory of taking it with them."

"You did exactly right, Commodore," exclaimed Miss Langdon. "That flag is just where we wish it to be—flying at the bottom of the sea over the only ship that ever sunk in victory."

When Francis Scott Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner" he was a prisoner on a cartel ship under the guns of a frigate, and was compelled to witness the bombardment of Fort M'Henry. During all the day and night of September 13, 1814, the shells rained upon the fort from the British vessels.

The flag itself which was the source of inspiration was 40 feet long and 26 feet wide. It had 15 horizontal stripes and 15 five-pointed stars, two feet from point to point, arranged in five indented parallel lines, three stars in each horizontal line.

This flag of Fort M'Henry was made in a brewery by a committee of ladies of Baltimore.

If birds in autumn grow tame,
 The winter will be too cold for game.

Mackerel sky, mackerel sky,
 Never long wet, never long dry.

If nights three dewless there be,
 'Twill rain, you're sure to see.

When trout refuse bait or fly
 There ever is a storm nigh.

A warm Christmas, a cold Easter;
 A green Christmas, a white Easter.
 Christmas in snow, Easter in mud.

A ring around the moon indicates rain, and the number of stars inclosed the number of days of the rain.

When eager bites the thirsty flea,
 Clouds and rain you sure shall see.

ANDREW CARNEGIE'S CAREER.

Andrew Carnegie was born in Dunfermline, Scotland, November 25, 1835. His parents were extremely poor. His father, William Carnegie, was a weaver, who in 1845, with his wife and two sons, Andrew and Thomas, came to America, where two years later the family settled in Pittsburgh, Pa. At the age of twelve, years Andrew was employed as bobbin boy in a linen factory, where he earned $1.20 a week. His father was employed in the same factory. Young Carnegie was promoted to the work of attending a stationary engine. At the age of 14 years he became a telegraphic messenger boy in Pittsburgh and learned telegraphy. He was the third operator in the United States to read the Morse signals by sound. He was for 13 years in the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad, rising to the position of a superintendent of division. Mr. Thomas A. Scott, of this railroad, who had become Assistant Secretary of War, asked young Carnegie to take charge of the military railroads and telegraphs of the Government. He was then 24 years of age. He shortly afterwards returned to his duties with the railroad. His first investment, made at the suggestion of Thomas A. Scott, was the purchase of ten shares of Adams Express Company's stock, valued at $500. This he did with considerable trepidation, as the money was hard-earned savings. He interested himself in sleeping-car improvements and other betterments of the railroad passenger service. He went into the Pennsylvania oil fields, and with others purchased land for $40,000 which in one year so increased in value that it paid a dividend of $1,000,000. When he was 30 years of age he began his career as an iron and steel manufacturer. He built bridges, made steel rails, furnished the Government with its armor plate, in due succession. He invested largely in Northwestern iron ore lands, but it was finally by the masterful process of converting iron into steel that he laid the foundation of his colossal fortune of $250,000,000 or more. He went into the railroad business as well, connected distant mines with harbor facilities for shipment, built steamers to carry the rude products of the mines to his mills in Pittsburgh. Late in life he married Mrs. Louise Whitworth, of New York, and they have one child, Margaret, four years of age. In America they live in New York city, No. 5 West Fifty-first street. In Scotland he lives on a large landed estate at Skibo Castle, in the Highlands, which was built by Gilbert Murray, bishop of Moray, in 1188. From the fact that he keeps flying from his castle the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes, he is called the "Star-Spangled Scotchman." He was made Lord Rector of St. Andrew's University in November, 1901.

SCOTCH UNIVERSITY ENDOWMENTS.

Andrew Carnegie, the Scotch-American steel manufacturer of Pittsburgh, Pa., surprised all of Great Britain by giving, May 20, 1901, the sum of £2,000,000 (about $10,000,000) to establish free education in four Scotch universities—Edinburgh, Glasgow, Aberdeen and St. Andrew's. He stipulated that the beneficiaries be his "Scottish fellow-countrymen" only—no English, Irish, colonial or foreigners. The fund was made to apply to general, medical and commercial education, to be put in the hands of trustees, who will pay the expenses of Scottish students benefited under the plan.

The University of Edinburgh was founded in 1582. During the year 1899 the total number of matriculated students in attendance was 2,348. Of these 836 were enrolled in the faculty of arts, 1,399 in the faculty of medicine, 368 in law, 47 in divinity, 176 in science and 22 in music. Among the matriculated students were 239 women.

St. Andrew's University is even more ancient than Edinburgh, having been founded in 1411. It originally included three separate colleges and corporations: St. Salvator's, dating from 1450; St. Leonard's, 1512, and St. Mary's, 1537. In 1747 the two first named were united and took the faculties of arts and medicine. St. Mary's being devoted to theology. University College, founded at Dundee in 1880, was made a part of the University of St. Andrew's in 1897. The average number of students in attendance is about 200.

The University of Glasgow was founded by a bull of Pope Nicholas V in 1450, receiving a new charter from James VI of Scotland in 1577. Its organization was remodeled by the Universities of Scotland acts of 1858 and 1889, by which each of the Scottish universities was given a similar organization. During the session of 1899 there were 1,953 students in attendance, of whom 306 were women. Of the total, 834 were students in art and 661 in medicine.

Aberdeen University was founded in 1494 by Bishop Elphinstone as a Studium Generale, in which he constituted a college in 1505 known as King's College. In 1593 George Keith, fifth Earl Marischal, founded Marischal College, which came to be also a university distinct from the former foundation. These two universities were united in one institution in 1860 and now form the University of Aberdeen. There are 23 professors and more than 800 students. The University of Aberdeen has been making great progress of late years, and during the last ten years has expended over $500,000 in sites and buildings. Like the other Scottish universities, it confers the whole range of academic and professional degrees.

BARON HIRSCH'S BENEFACTIONS.

Baron Maurice de Hirsch de Gerenth, the Austrian financier, who died in Hungary, April 20, 1896, gave away during his lifetime $50,000,000. The gifts of his wife, who devoted her life to charitable works before he began his benefactions, were as great in proportion. After his death the Baroness continued his benefactions. His father was a cattle dealer, who became court banker at Munich, was ennobled in 1869, and at his death left a large fortune to his son. Maurice de Gereuth began his career in a banking house at the age of 18 years. He afterwards secured a concession from the Turkish Government for building railroads. This and other dealings with the Turkish Government were immensely profitable; so were other undertakings. These profits, together with the fortune left him by his father and his wife's dowry of $20,000,000, augmented his capital and means of money-making. When he acquired a fortune estimated at $200,000,000, and had an income of $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 a year, he arranged his affairs so that he could devote his whole mind to the expenditure of this vast income for the benefit of his fellow-men. He believed that this was the only honorable way of spending money on a large scale. He had sought social distinction, but was shunned by the Austrian and French aristocrats, though he counted among his friends the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII of Great Britain. He was successful on the English turf and gave his winnings to the London hospitals. The death of his only son in 1888 impelled him to devote himself more and more to charitable projects. His greatest scheme was the Jewish Colonization Society, to which he gave $10,000,000. Its object is to transplant Jews who formed indigent communities in Europe and Asia, especially those who suffered under political or social disabilities, as in Russia, Roumania and Austria, to some new country where they could develop into independent farmers. Colonies were established in the Argentine Republic and the United States. He gave vast sums also to establish mechanical training schools for young Hebrews in all the great cities of Europe and in the United States, Turkey in Asia and Egypt. He gave $2,500,000 to form a fund in New York for educating and Americanizing Russian and Roumanian Jews. He gave $3,000,000 to the Jews of Galicia for educational purposes. When the Russian government declined to accept $10,000,000 for popular education, on condition that Jews should not be shut out from the advantages, he sent $200,000 to be distributed in charity by the Emperor. His gifts aggregated $50,000,000, and his widow continued the benefactions after his death.

QUEEN VICTORIA.

Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and Empress of India, died at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, January 22, 1901.

She was 81 years, 8 months and 29 days old.

Her reign covered a period of 63 years, 7 months and 2 days.

Her fatal illness began with a paralytic stroke, which she suffered January 16. It was the first serious illness in all her long life.

She was born May 24, 1819, at Kensington Palace, London.

She ascended the throne June 20, 1837.

She was married February 10, 1840, to Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg, who died December 14, 1861.

She had 4 sons and 5 daughters, 40 grandchildren and 36 great-grandchildren; 2 sons and 4 daughters survive.

She had 20 Premiers at the head of government during her long reign, from Viscount Melbourne to the Marquis of Salisbury. The then existing Parliament was the fourteenth of her reign.

She left a private fortune estimated at $20,000,000.

She was formally crowned in Westminster Abbey, June 28, 1838.

She was proclaimed Empress of India January 1, 1877.

She was the longest lived Sovereign in English history, being 1 month and 4 days older than George I.

The longest previous reign in English history was that of George III—59 years, 3 months, 4 days.

The length of her reign is exceeded in European history only by Louis XIV of France, 72 years, 3 months, 18 days, and by Sancho II of Navarre and Castile, 65 years.

Her remains were placed in the mausoleum at Frogmore, February 4, 1901, beside the late Prince Consort, Albert.

KING EDWARD VII. OF GREAT BRITAIN.

Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, on succeeding to the throne took the title of Edward VII.

He was proclaimed King in London and throughout the United Kingdom January 24, 1901.

Title, Edward VII, by the grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the British Dominions Beyond the Sea, King, Defender of the Faith, and Emperor of India.

He took the oath of accession in St. James' Palace, January 23, 1901.

On February 15, 1901, he opened his first Parliament and read the speech from the throne.

His coronation was deferred until June 25, 1902.

He was born November 9, 1841, at Buckingham Palace, London.

Age at accession to throne, 59 years, 2 months and 13 days.

He was older at accession than any monarch of England, except William IV, who was aged 64 years, 10 months and 5 days when his brother, George IV, died in 1830.

Married to Princess Alexandra, eldest daughter of King of Denmark, on March 10, 1863, at Windsor Castle.

Had 3 sons and 3 daughters, of whom 1 son and 3 daughters are living. Has had 6 grandchildren.

He is the thirty-ninth ruler of England since William the Norman conquered the land in 1066.

Fifty-fifth ruler of England since Alfred the Great, who died just 1,000 years ago.

He is the first Edward on the throne for 348 years.

Seventh sovereign of the House of Hanover, which began in 1714, with George I.

Created Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester by patent under the Great Seal on December 4, 1841, 25 days after his birth.

Sat in the House of Lords since 1862 as the Duke of Cornwall.

Takes lively interest in the sports of England and has won most of the famous turf events, including the Derby in 1896, with his horse Persimmons, and in 1900, with Diamond Jubilee.

Sovereign of the Order of the Garter and the Order of St. Andrew and member of most of the Continental orders of knighthood.

Has had an annual income of $500,000 since his marriage, and exchanges this by becoming King for Parliamentary grants of more than $2,000,000 annually.

He is a thirty-third degree Mason, Grand Master of the Grand Lodges of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, Grand Prior of the Knights Templar in England, and Grand Patron of the Scottish Rite Masons of the United Kingdom.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

The new Queen of England, Alexandra Caroline Marie Charlotte Louise Julia, was born at Copenhagen, Denmark, December 1, 1844.

Married to King Edward VII, then Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, on March 10, 1863, at Windsor Castle.

Eldest daughter and second child of King Christian IX of Denmark and Princess Louise of Hesse-Cassel, who died September 29, 1898.

Sister of King George I of Greece; Empress Dowager Dagmar, of Russia (widow of Czar Alexander III); Princess Thyra, Duchess of Cumberland; Prince Frederick, Crown Prince of Denmark, and Prince Waldemar of Denmark.

Mother of George, the Duke of Cornwall and York, the heir apparent, and of Princesses Louise, Victoria and Maud. Princess Louise is the wife of the Duke of Fife and Princess Maud the wife of Prince Charles of Denmark.

HEIR APPARENT TO BRITISH THRONE.

George Frederick Ernest Albert, the heir apparent to the British throne, was born June 3, 1865, at Marlborough House, London.

Educated in the British Navy and rose to the rank of captain.

Came into the direct succession by the death of his eldest brother, Prince Albert Victor, Duke of Clarence and of Avondale, January 14, 1892.

Created Duke of York, Earl of Inverness and Baron Killarney May 24, 1892.

Married July 6, 1893, at St. James' Palace, London, to Princess Victoria Mary of Teck, who had been betrothed to his brother.

Princess Victoria Mary was born at Kensington Palace, London, May 26, 1867, and was the eldest child of Francis, Duke of Teck, and Princess Mary Adelaide, youngest daughter of the Duke of Cambridge, uncle of Queen Victoria.

Their children have been Prince Edward Albert, born at Richmond Park, England, June 23, 1894, and heir, after his father, to the throne; Prince Albert, born at Sandringham, December 14, 1895, and Princess Victoria Alexandra, born at Sandringham, April 25, 1897.

Prince George inherits an income of $300,000 annually, with the Duchy of Cornwall, and was granted $200,000 more by Parliament.

November 9, 1901, on the sixtieth birthday of King Edward VII, the Duke of Cornwall and York was created Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester.

The title of Prince of Wales dates from 1284, when Edward I conferred it upon his son, born at Carnarvon Castle, to please the Welsh. The title is given by individual investment and not by birth, and is accompanied by the Earldom of Chester. Both titles were conferred on King Edward VII by patent December 8, 1841, a month after his birth.

AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH.

THE CABINET.

Premier—Right Hon. Edmund Barton, Q. C.

Treasurer—Sir George Turner.

Attorney-General and Minister for Justice—Mr. Alfred Deakin.

Minister for Trade and Customs—Mr. Charles C. Kingston, Q. C.

Postmaster-General—Sir John Forrest.

Minister for Defense—Sir James Robert Dickson.

Minister for Home Affairs—Sir W. J. Lyne.

During the year 1900 the Australian Commonwealth was created by the federation of six States—Tasmania, Victoria, New South Wales, Queensland, South Australia and Western Australia. The federated government was granted during the summer by the British Parliament. This government is modeled upon that of the United States of America, and falls little short of complete independence. The executive power is vested in a governor-general, appointed by the Crown, assisted by a Federal executive council. The Federal Parliament consists of a Senate and House of Representatives, both elected by the people. Although the States make their own laws, these must receive the sanction of the Crown or its representative before becoming operative. The Federal or general government will administer customs, excise, postal and other functions on the plan somewhat of the delegated government of the United States. The first Federal Parliament was opened January 1, 1901, by the Duke of Cornwall and York, and the Earl of Hopetoun was sworn in as the first governor of the commonwealth.

CARDINAL MARTINELLI.

The ceremony of the imposition of the red biretta upon Cardinal Sebastian Martinelli took place May 8, 1901, in the Cathedral of Baltimore, in the presence of a vast gathering of church dignitaries and distinguished laymen. Cardinal Martinelli is the superior-general of the Augustinian Order, the Titular Archbishop of Ephesus and the Apostolic Delegate in the United States. He was created a Cardinal by Pope Leo XIII, April 15, 1901, and received the beretta from the hands of James Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore.

The ceremony in conferring the red biretta followed in every detail the rubric of the church for such rites. The order of the ceremony was as follows: Reading of the Papal letter to Cardinal Gibbons.

Address of Monsignor Marchetti, the Papal ablegate, to Cardinal Gibbons.

Reading of the Papal brief to Cardinal Martinelli.

Cardinal Gibbons' address to Cardinal Martinelli.

The imposition of the biretta.

Cardinal Martinelli's reply to Cardinal Gibbons.

Pontifical mass at which Cardinal Martinelli was celebrant.

Sermon by Archbishop P. J. Ryan, of Philadelphia.

Cardinal Martinelli was born at Santa Anna, Lucan, in Tuscany, August 20, 1848. There are but two Cardinals younger than he. One is the Archbishop of Prague, who was created Cardinal at the same time and who is the youngest member of the Sacred College, being only 37 years old. The other is Cardinal Joseph Vives y Tuto, who was created Cardinal in June, 1899, and who is 47 years old. Cardinal Martinelli is a brother of the late Cardinal Tommaso Maria Martinelli, who was also a member of the Augustinian order, and during the conclave that elected Leo XIII was spoken of as a not unlikely candidate for the papacy. Mgr. Martinelli received the Augustinian habit December, 1863, made his profession in 1865, and was ordained priest, March 4, 1871.

When he joined the Augustinian order he became a teacher. From a simple monk he rose rapidly until he is now superior-general of the order throughout the world. His first visit to the United States was in 1894, when he came to visit the Augustinian monks.

Cardinal Francis Satolli, who preceded Archbishop Martinelli as apostolic delegate, came to the United States in 1893 as the first delegate to this country. He served four years and then became a cardinal in accordance with plans the Pope made before sending him here.

When, in 1896, Pope Leo offered the position of Apostolic Delegate to Archbishop Martinelli, he refused it. A second offer brought about a second refusal, and he finally accepted it in 1897, only after a command.

CARDINALS IN AMERICA.

Cardinals especially identified with the Roman Catholic Church in North America have been, to date, as follows:

John Louis Lefebvre de Cheverus, Bishop of Boston from 1810 to 1823, and later Archbishop of Bordeaux, France; elevated to Cardinalate in 1832; died in 1836.

John McCloskey, Archbishop of New York; elevated in 1873; died in 1885.

James Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore; elevated in 1886.

Elzéar Alexandre Taschereau, Archbishop of Quebec; elevated in 1886; died in 1889.

Camillus Mazella, formerly professor at Woodstock College, Baltimore county, Maryland, and a citizen of this State; elevated in 1886; died in 1900.

Ignatius Persico, Bishop of Savannah from 1870 to 1873; elevated in 1893; died in 1895.

Francisco Satolli, former Papal Delegate to the United States; elevated in 1895.

TUNNELS OF THE ALPS.

The Mont Cenis tunnel in the Alps is nearly 8 miles long, the Ariberg is 6 1-3 miles long, and the St. Gothard is 9 1-3 miles long. The Simplon is 12 1/4 miles long, of which length 10,790 yards have been pierced. The work is to be done in 1904, at an estimated cost of about $300 per yard of single-line tunnel. At first a single-line tunnel will be made, and another will be made when needed at reduced cost. The great merit of the Simplon is its low grade. At its highest point it is but 60 feet above the railway station in the Valley of the Rhone, whereas the Mont Cenis rises 4,248 feet, the Ariberg 4,300 feet and the St. Gothard 3,788 feet. Work was begun on the Simplon in 1898. The temperature within the mountain is found to be 89°, so that special arrangements are required to cool the air breathed by the workmen.

DOWAGER EMPRESS FREDERICK OF GERMANY.

Victoria Mary Louisa, Empress Dowager of Germany, died at Cronberg, August 5, 1901, of cancer and the resultant dropsy, aged 60 years. She was the eldest child of the late Queen Victoria. She married Frederick, then Crown Prince of Prussia, January 25, 1858. For a few months in 1888, after the death of Emperor William I, she shared the throne of United Germany with her husband, who became Frederick III. A cancerous affection carried off the monarch, and the eldest of his seven children succeeded him—the present Emperor, William II.

After the death of Frederick the Dowager Empress spent most of her time in seclusion. She exemplified in her life those domestic virtues which are an ornament to the highest type of womanhood. She was a loyal and devoted wife and mother and a noble-hearted woman. She was a woman of wonderfully varied accomplishments, but was disliked by a section of the German people because of her English ideas. Bismarck, having opposed the marriage of the Crown Prince Frederick to an English woman, availed himself of every opportunity to prejudice the German people against her. Yet her life was itself a refutation of all the charges which Bismarck's ingenuity devised. Her efforts to improve the condition of women in Germany and to secure them some degree of political influence were resented by the statesmen of the old school. It was Bismarck who said of her that she was not only a "rights-of-man" woman, but a "rights-of-woman" woman as well. She was an advocate of peace, a gentlewoman in the best sense of the word, and a worthy daughter of a mother whose virtues were admired the world over.

She was born at Windsor, England, November 21, 1840.

She was the eldest child of a Queen, Empress Victoria; the wife of an Emperor, Frederick William of Germany; the sister of a King-Emperor, Edward VII of England, and the mother of an Emperor, William II of Germany.

Her surviving children are:

Emperor William II, born January 27, 1859.

Princess Charlotte, born July 24, 1860, and married in February, 1878, to Prince Bernhard, eldest son of Duke George II of Saxe-Meiningen.

Prince Henry, born August 14, 1862, and married in May, 1888, to Princess Irene, a daughter of the late Grand Duke Louis IV of Hesse.

Princess Victoria, born April 12, 1866, and married in November, 1890, to Prince Adolf of Schaumburg-Lippe.

Princess Sophia, born June 14, 1870, and married in October, 1889, to the Crown Prince Constantine of Greece.

Princess Margaret, born April 22, 1872, and married in January, 1893, to Prince Frederick Carl of Hesse.

Two of her children, Princes Sigismund and Waldemar, died in childhood.

TO SOLDIERS OF THE REVOLUTION.

On Peggy Stewart Day, October 19, 1901, a handsome monument to Maryland soldiers of the Revolutionary War, erected in Mount Royal Plaza, Baltimore, by the Maryland Society, Sons of the American Revolution, was unveiled with elaborate ceremonies. The monument is a granite column 32 feet high, on a base and pedestal, and surmounted by a statue of the goddess of liberty, holding a laurel wreath of victory in an uplifted hand and a scroll of the Declaration of Independence in the other. The statue is 11 feet high, and the total height of the monument from the ground 60 feet 6 inches.

On each of the four sides of the pedestal are inscriptions commemorative of the services of the Maryland Line and memorable events of the Revolution in which the State and its people participated, including the date of the burning of the cargo of tea and the Peggy Stewart in Annapolis harbor, October 19, 1774. The actions in which Maryland troops participated are commemorated on the tablets as follows:

Md. Riflemen, Camb'dge, Aug. 9, 1775.

Long Island, Aug. 27 and 29, 1776.

Rear Guard of the Retreat from New York, September 15, 1776.

ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT McKINLEY.

On Friday afternoon, September 6, 1901, at 4.12 o'clock, William McKinley, twenty-fourth President of the United States, was shot while holding a public reception in the Temple of Music at the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y., and died at 2.15 o'clock A. M. September 14. He was killed by Leon F. Czolgosz, a young anarchist, who approached the President holding a pistol in his right hand hidden by a handkerchief, which gave him the appearance of being wounded.

As the President was about to extend to him sympathetic and friendly greeting, the assassin fired twice in rapid succession, before the guards, soldiers and others standing near could interpose and overpower him. The smoking weapon was knocked from the assassin's hand and he was crushed to the floor by a crowd of indignant bystanders and badly beaten. The President begged that no personal injury be inflicted upon him, and is even reported to have said, in that trying moment, "May God forgive him."

President J. G. Milburn, of the Pan-American Exposition, and President McKinley's private secretary, George B. Cortelyou, assisted the wounded President to a chair, and as soon as practicable he was removed in an automobile ambulance to the Emergency Hospital, on the Exposition grounds. Here it was ascertained that one bullet had struck the breast bone, glancing and not penetrating. The second bullet entered the abdomen five inches below the left nipple and one and one-half inches to the left of the medial line. A surgical operation was promptly performed. It was found that the bullet had passed through the stomach. The internal wounds were stitched and the abdominal wound was closed. No injury to the intestines or other abdominal organs was discovered.

The President stood the operation well and the surgeons were hopeful that he would recover. Encouraging reports were bulletined from the bedside in Mr. Milburn's house, whither the President was conveyed from the hospital, until September 12, when the sufferer's condition changed for the worse, and he died early on the morning of the 14th. The dying bedside was attended by members of his family, Cabinet officers, and the wife for whom, as an invalid, the President had shown the tenderest solicitude. She had accompanied him to Buffalo September 4, and was with him on the 5th when he delivered a memorable speech at the Exposition, declaring for reciprocity in trade. Mrs. McKinley, however, was fortunately not with him when the assassin fired the fatal shot.

The President's last words, as noted at the time, were: "Good by, all; good by. It is God's way; His will be done, not ours." He died peacefully and without pain, like one sinking into sleep. In this dreamy relapse into unconsciousness he murmured, "Nearer, my God, to Thee."

Vice-President Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, who had gone from Buffalo to the Adirondacks in the full expectation that the President would recover, was hastily summoned when the change began to take place. He reached Buffalo and was sworn in as President of the United States at 3.35 o'clock in the afternoon of September 14. Of his own volition he announced to the Cabinet officers and other witnesses of the formality that he would adhere to and carry out the policies of President McKinley.

After public funeral services in Buffalo, the remains of President McKinley were transferred by special train to Washington, where they lay in state at the Capitol. From the seat of government they were conveyed to his home, and entombed in a vault in Canton, Ohio, September 19.

Leon F. Czolgosz, the assassin, was 28 years of age and was born in Detroit, Mich. His father and other members of his family were residents of Cleveland, Ohio, from which place Czolgosz went to Buffalo, as he avowed before reputable witnesses, for the express purpose of killing President McKinley. He said to the superintendent of police of Buffalo after his arrest, "I am an anarchist, and I did my duty." He stated that he had embraced anarchistic principles from the teachings of Emma Goldman. All efforts failed to discover whether he had confederates or not, and he steadily denied that he had. He seemed rather to be proud that the crime was of his own conception and execution. He was arraigned for trial in Buffalo, September 23. He pleaded "guilty," but, under the laws of New York, the court ordered the plea of "not guilty" to be entered and the case went to trial. Counsel was assigned, but the prisoner would have nothing to say to the lawyers who defended him. He was found guilty September 24, sentenced to death September 26, and executed by electricity in Auburn prison, New York, October 29. His corpse was put into a grave in the prison yard with quicklime and sulphuric acid, to be consumed quickly. Every bit of his clothing and other personal belongings were burned, so that, so far as the authorities of New York State were concerned, not a vestige of the assassin should be left extant.

CAREER OF PRESIDENT McKINLEY.

William McKinley was born in the town of Niles, Trumbull county, Ohio, on January 29, 1843. After leaving Allegheny College he became a teacher. The great Civil War broke out just as he had entered his nineteenth year. He enlisted as a private soldier in the Twenty-third Ohio Volunteer Infantry, June 11, 1861. He was promoted successively to the grades of lieutenant and captain. He served on the staffs of Gen. Rutherford B. Hayes, himself afterwards President, and Gen. Winfield S. Hancock. President Lincoln gave him a brevet as major in March, 1865, for gallantry in battle, and it was with that rank that he was mustered out of the service. To the time of his election as President, and after, he was known as "the Major."

He read for the bar and was admitted to practice in 1867. He settled in Canton, Ohio, which he made his home. In 1869 he was made prosecuting attorney for the county. His election to the House of Representatives at Washington in 1876 was the beginning of his political career. From the beginning to the end of his services of 14 years in the House of Representatives he identified himself with the tariff. He was a protectionist, which policy he proposed, in his speech delivered at Buffalo the day before he was assassinated, to modify by the policy of reciprocity.

After his defeat for Congress in 1890, he was elected Governor of Ohio in 1891, and re-elected in 1893. He was elected President of the United States in November, 1896, and re-elected in 1900.

He was a delegate at large from Ohio to the Republican National Convention of 1884 and a member of the Committee on Resolutions. He supported James G. Blaine for President. He was a delegate to the convention of 1888, supporting John Sherman for President, and was chairman of the Committee on Resolutions. He was a delegate at large to the convention of 1892 and was made its chairman. In this convention he received 182 votes for nomination as President of the United States, but refused to allow his name to be considered and supported the nomination of Benjamin Harrison. At St. Louis, June 18, 1896, he was nominated for President by the Republican National Convention, receiving 661 votes out of a total of 905 votes. He was elected in November, 1896, by a popular plurality of 600,000 votes, and received 271 electoral votes, as against 176 for William Jennings Bryan. On June 21, 1900, he was unanimously nominated at Philadelphia by the Republican National Convention for a second term as President, and was re-elected over William Jennings Bryan by a popular plurality of 849,000 votes, receiving 292 electoral votes, against 155 for Mr. Bryan.

During his administration the public credit was well sustained. Gold was made the statutory standard of value, setting at rest a vexed question. Cuba was set free. Spain was forced to relinquish the Philippines, Guam and Porto Rico, and they became possessions of the United States. The Hawaiian Islands were absorbed. The island of Tutuila, of the Samoan group, was acquired.

After the war with Spain was declared it was prosecuted with astonishing vigor—astonishing when the want of due preparation is considered—and with startling success. Mr. McKinley always declared he was not an imperialist. "He was for expansion—legitimate, inevitable expansion—but for expansion in the true republican sense." Except Washington and Lincoln, no President of the United States was called upon to deal with more momentous issues. He will be remembered as a wise, patient ruler, whose domestic virtues shone far, and whose character broadened with the responsibilities that were placed upon him.

PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION.

Succession to the Presidency of the United States in case of the death of both President and Vice-President is settled by law. This was provided for January 19, 1886, soon after the death of Vice-President Hendricks. Up to that time Congress would have been obliged to decide who should become Chief Executive should the President and Vice-President both become incapacitated. The main features of the law of the Presidential succession are as follows:

In case of removal, death, resignation or inability of both the President and Vice-President of the United States, Cabinet officers are in the line of succession in the following order:

1. Secretary of State.
2. Secretary of the Treasury.
3. Secretary of War.

4. Attorney-General.
5. Postmaster-General.
6. Secretary of the Navy.
7. Secretary of the Interior.

In this order they are to succeed and act as President until the disability of the President or Vice-President is removed, or a President shall be elected.

The law provides that when one of the above Cabinet officers succeeds to the Presidency in the order named, he shall call a special session of Congress. A proviso limits the succession to those who would be eligible to the Presidency under the terms of the Constitution, and who have been appointed with the advice and consent of the Senate. The effect of the law is not to provide a succession to the Vice-Presidency, but merely to insure a succession to the Presidency.

ATTACK ON EMPEROR WILLIAM II.

In Bremen, March 6, 1901, Dietrich Welland, an epileptic, threw an iron fish plate weighing about a pound into the carriage of Emperor William II of Germany. The iron struck the monarch in the face and made a wound an inch and a half long on his right cheek. The Emperor preserved his composure and betrayed no sign of pain he must have felt from the blow. His cloak was stained with blood from the wound. Welland, in trying to escape, fell under the horses of the escort riding behind the imperial carriage. He was handed over to the police. His examination proved that he was not mentally responsible. The playing of a fountain near where he was standing caused him to imagine that he was sailing a ship his former vocation having been that of a captain of a merchant vessel. Under this delusion he attempted to heave lead and threw the piece of iron. The he lost consciousness and fell in a fit.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

Theodore Roosevelt, the twenty-fifth President of the United States, was elected Vice-President in November, 1900, and succeeded to the Presidency on the death of President McKinley, September 14, 1901. He was born in New York, October 27, 1858, and graduated from Harvard University in 1880. The degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by Columbia University in 1899, Hope College in 1901 and Yale in 1901. He served as a member of the New York Legislature 1882-4. He was the unsuccessful republican candidate for mayor of New York city in 1886. He served as a Commissioner on the National Civil Service Board from 1889 to 1893; was president of the New York police board, 1895-7; Assistant Secretary of the Navy, United States, 1897-8. He resigned the Assistant Secretaryship to organize, with Gen. Leonard Wood, the First Regiment, United States Volunteer Cavalry. Of this command he was the lieutenant-colonel, and the regiment was popularly known as "Roosevelt's Rough Riders." It distinguished itself in action in Cuba, and he was promoted colonel for gallantry at the battle of Las Guasimas. He also distinguished himself at San Juan Hill, Santiago.

He is the author of the following works:

THREE AMERICAN ASSASSINATIONS.

Date.	President.	Assassin.	Weapon.
1865, April 14, Friday.	Abraham Lincoln.	John Wilkes Booth.	Pistol.
1881, July 2, Saturday.	James A. Garfield.	Charles J. Guiteau.	Revolver.
1901, Sept. 6, Friday.	William McKinley.	Leon F. Czolgosz.	Revolver.

John Wilkes Booth, who killed President Lincoln, was shot to death; Charles J. Guiteau, who murdered President Garfield, was hanged, and Leon F. Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, was put to death by electricity.

For 12 days after shooting President Lincoln in Washington city, Booth suffered untold agony in a vain flight through Southern Maryland and tide-water Virginia, his broken leg hampering all his movements. On April 26 he was surrounded by Federal soldiers in a barn on the farm of Richard H. Garrett, in Caroline county, Virginia. As he refused to surrender, the barn was fired. In the light of the flames, Boston Corbett, a soldier, saw Booth and shot him through the head. Booth was taken to Mr. Garrett's house and put on the porch, where he died. His last words were: "Tell my mother I died for my country and what I thought was best for it." His body was secretly buried by the Government authorities, but after several years was surrendered to his family and interred in the family lot in Greenmount Cemetery, Baltimore.

Charles J. Guiteau shot President Garfield in Washington city, July 2, 1881, and the President died September 19. Guiteau's trial began at Washington, November 14. On January 25, 1882, the jury rendered a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. The assassin was hanged in the jail yard at Washington, June 30.

President McKinley was shot at Buffalo September 6, and died in the same city at 2.15 A. M. September 14. Czolgosz was put on trial there September 23, and on September 26 was sentenced to death in the electric chair, which sentence was fulfilled October 29, one day later than the shortest time allowed by the law of New York State.

Thus Booth was shot 12 days after the commission of his crime, Guiteau was hanged 363 days after, and Czolgosz was executed 53 days after.

FUNSTON'S CAPTURE OF AGUINALDO.

To Gen. Frederick Funston, of Kansas, belongs the great distinction of planning and executing a scheme which resulted, March 23, 1901, in the capture of the Filipino president, Emilio Aguinaldo, in his hiding place at Palanan, in the Province of Isabella, Island of Luzon. The capture was by a stratagem devised by Funston, approved by his military superiors, including General MacArthur, and boldly carried into effect under Funston's direction, with the co-operation of the naval arm of the service and the assistance of four American officers and a force of native soldiers. The stratagem was in deceiving Aguinaldo by skillfully forged letters, purporting to come from the Filipino General Lucena, promising Aguinaldo reinforcements. These letters it was possible to invest with the appearance of genuineness, from the fact that they were written on paper bearing the official seal of Lucena, whose camp had been previously surprised and captured by Funston on a scouting expedition. General MacArthur, in an official report, tells the story of the exploit as follows:

"Important messages fell into the hands of General Funston, February 28, from which Aguinaldo was located at Palanan, Isabella Province. An expedition was organized, consisting of Aguinaldo's captured messenger, 4 ex-insurgent officers and 78 Macabebes, who spoke Tagalog, armed with Mausers and Remingtons and dressed to represent insurgents. Funston commanded, accompanied by Capt. Russell T. Hazzard, Eleventh Cavalry; Capt. Harry W. Newton, Thirty-fourth Infantry; Lieut. Oliver P. M. Hazzard, Eleventh Cavalry, and Lieut. Burton J. Mitchell, Fortieth Volunteer Infantry. The officers were dressed as American privates and represented prisoners.

"The expedition sailed from Manila March 8. The Vicksburg landed the men March 14 on the east coast of Luzon, 20 miles south of Casiguran. They reached Palanan, marching there on the afternoon of March 23. The natives were completely misled. They supposed our men were a detachment of insurgent reinforcements, and supplies were furnished. Aguinaldo also sent supplies and had his escort of 40 men paraded to extend proper honor.

"A short distance from Aguinaldo's quarters the disguise was discarded and a combat followed, resulting in 2 insurgents being killed, 18 rifles and 1,000 rounds of ammunition captured, together with Aguinaldo and 2 principal staff officers. No casualties on our side. There was splendid co-operation by the navy through Commander Barry and the officers and men of the Vicksburg, which was indispensable to success.

"The transaction was brilliant in conception and faultless in execution. All credit must go to Funston, who, under the supervision of General Wheaton, organized and conducted the expedition from start to finish. His reward should be signal and immediate."

This recommendation from the highest American authority in the Philippines, the Military Governor, had the desired effect, and Funston was rewarded with a brigadier-generalship in the regular Army. He was at the time only 35 years of age. He was born in Ohio, educated in Kansas, acquired the Spanish language while a student at Kansas University. In the summer of 1889, during his vacation, he explored the Rocky Mountains, and two years afterwards Death Valley, under commission from the Government, and in 1893 Alaska, to report on the flora of that Territory. During the winter of 1893-1894 he camped in the Klondike, since made famous for its gold deposits. From Alaska he went to Central America as a promoter of coffee planting. Next he was a newspaper reporter in Kansas City for a time. In 1896 he engaged in filibustering in Cuba. When the war with Spain broke out, he was appointed colonel of the Twentieth Regiment, Kansas Volunteers. He distinguished himself in the Philippines at the capture of Malolos, the first Filipino capital, where he swam a river, pistol in hand, with a few of his men, flanked the enemy and turned the tide of battle. When the new volunteer army was formed he was made a brigadier-general of volunteers. Throughout his career in the east he was a courageous, daring fighter.

Emilio Aguinaldo y Famy at the time of his capture was only 31 years of age. He was treated with every consideration, and on April 19 issued an address to his countrymen, advising them to submit, and to accept and acknowledge the sovereignty of the United States throughout the Philippine archipelago, without reserve, as he had done.

PINHEAD ENGRAVING.

Harvey A. Houseal, an engraver in Baltimore, accomplished the difficult feat, in July, 1901, of engraving all the letters of the alphabet on the head of an ordinary pin. He first ground the pin head until it had a flat surface.

The letters, which are all capitals, are engraved in two concentric circles, those from A to Q being in the first and those from R to Z in the second. The space which was left in the center of the two circles is occupied by the character &.

BENJAMIN F. NEWCOMER.

Mr. Benjamin F. Newcomer, president of the Baltimore Safe Deposit and Trust Company, died at his home, in Baltimore, March 30, 1901, in the seventy-fourth year of his age. He left an estate valued at $6,615,869. He was a conservative, sagacious adviser in business affairs. The establishment of the Baltimore Safe Deposit and Trust Company a generation ago was regarded at the time as a startling innovation in business methods, but time and events justified Mr. Newcomer's judgment in this matter, and this, which was his favorite enterprise, became a model for similar institutions which have grown up in later years. It was the pioneer in Baltimore among corporations in taking charge of estates as trustee or executor of wills. In all business affairs his opinion was listened to with respect.

He was born April 28, 1827, in Washington county, and was educated in Hagerstown, where he founded the public library during the later years of his life, giving $50,000 for the purpose. By his will he left $25,000 to the Home for Orphans in Hagerstown, $10,000 each to the Maryland School for the Blind and the Poor Association of Baltimore. He also bequeathed $3,000 to the Little Sisters of the Poor and $2,000 to the Society for the Protection of Children.

GRAY, THE ELECTRICAL INVENTOR.

Prof. Elisha Gray, who was one of the best known of the electrical inventors of the day, died suddenly January 20, 1901, at Newtonville, Mass., in the sixty-sixth year of his age. He was born at Barnesville, Belmont county, Ohio, August 2, 1835. He was of Quaker descent and reared on a farm. Through his own efforts he was educated at Oberlin College. His first invention was a self-adjusting telegraph relay. He perfected the typewriting telegraph, telegraph switch, the annunciator and many other electrical appliances. But he got no money from them, though others coined fortunes out of them. In 1874 he rigged up a machine by means of which musical tones were transmitted by wire. His invention was exhibited all over the scientific world. In recognition of his genius he was made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor of France.

The principle of the telephone was suggested to him in the course of a visit to Milwaukee, where he saw a toy telephone depending upon the vibrations of membranes to transmit sound. He filed his plans for an electrical transmitter in the Patent Office February 14, 1876, but someone else had filed similar plans at almost the same time. Law suits that followed went against him, but many scientists today credit him with the invention of the telephone.

Early in the eighties, while he was identified with the Pan-American Telephone Company, his litigation with the Bell telephone concern was tried in Baltimore. His last days were spent in poverty and disappointment.

PROF. HENRY A. ROWLAND.

Prof. Henry A. Rowland, the world-famous professor of physics in the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, died April 16, 1901, aged 52 years. He was born in Honesdale, Pa., November 27, 1848, and was graduated at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in 1870 as a civil engineer. In 1876 he accepted the chair of physics, with charge of the laboratory, in the then newly founded Johns Hopkins University, and remained there until his death. Many distinguished honors were conferred upon him by European governments and learned societies. He was an honorary LL. D. of Yale, of Princeton and of the Johns Hopkins. He was a member of the Electrical Congress that met in Paris in 1881, and served on the jury of the electrical exhibition there in that year, and for his services was made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

His original work was extensive, and included numerous researches that have been made under his supervision at the Johns Hopkins University.

In 1885-6 he gained a world-wide reputation by his large diffraction gratings, which were ruled, by a method of his own, directly on concave mirrors. An image of the spectrum was thus produced without the aid of lenses. According to his method, as many as 30,000 lines to the inch could be made. The photographs of the solar spectrum that he succeeded in making with these gratings surpass anything else of the kind that has ever been done.

As an expert in physics and electricity Professor Rowland gained a high name among technical men. He planned and superintended the harnessing of the water power of Niagara Falls to create electricity, and his most recent notable achievement was a multiplex telegraph invention, which, after several tests over many months, was shortly before his death turned over to a company to exploit. It is feared that the art of making the microscopically fine gratings on a concave surface for spectroscopes is lost with the inventor.

DELMAR FIRE RECORD.

The town of Delmar, on the border line of Delaware and Maryland, 7 miles north of Salisbury, Wicomico county, Maryland, was swept by a destructive fire October 26, 1901. The property destroyed was within an area of 10 acres, and loss was estimated at about $100,000, with little insurance. In all this territory but a single house was left standing—a brick house belonging to Elijah Freeny. That part of the town situated in Maryland escaped.

The property in Delaware destroyed included 20 dwelling houses, 10 stores, 1 mill and manufacturing plant, 1 schoolhouse, 4 work shops, several offices and other buildings. Thirty or forty families had to depend upon their neighbors for shelter.

Every store in the town was burned but two. The wind was blowing almost a hurricane and 50 houses were burning at one time. The roar of the flames could be heard for a long distance. The flames broke out in the second story of William T. Sirman's barn about 2 P. M., and within a few minutes it was seen that most of the town was doomed. A special engine was started at once from Salisbury, where word had been telegraphed to send the Salisbury Fire Department. The town was without means of fighting the fire except by the "bucket brigade."

Shortly after noon, August 16, 1892, Delmar was almost destroyed by a fire which burned over 60 houses and reduced many families to want of shelter, food and clothing.

The houses destroyed covered 13 acres of ground. On this, as on the subsequent occasion, fire engines and firemen were called into service from Salisbury, but there was no water convenient.

When the fire of 1892 was discovered it was a small spot on the top of the Knights of Pythias Hall, on the Delaware side. It looked as if the fire might be extinguished with a bucket of water, but in a few minutes the entire building was in flames. A strong wind blowing from the north and abundant inflammable material combined to make a conflagration.

The fire of 1892 burned 20 houses on the Delaware side, and then it leaped across State street, the dividing line between Maryland and Delaware, and burned over forty houses on the Maryland side, making a total of over sixty houses destroyed. Churches, stores and dwellings were all involved in the ruins. The total loss was considerably over $100,000, while the insurance was for about half that amount. About 300 persons were rendered homeless and destitute, so that contributions of food, money and clothing were necessary.

Delmar has about 1,000 inhabitants. It is at the western end of Sussex county and is 97 miles south of Wilmington.

BURNING OF THE ZOO.

Frank C. Bostock's Zoo, at Mount Royal and Maryland avenues, in Baltimore, was destroyed by fire on the night of January 30, 1901. The animals destroyed numbered 300. The list is as follows:

1 Lioness and 4 cubs,	1 Bengal Tiger,
2 Leopards,	3 Jaguars,
1 Lion (Prince),	1 Leopard,
4 Young Lions,	4 Lions and 3 cubs,
3 Coyotes,	3 Polar Bears,
Chamois,	1 Striped Hyena,
Water Buffalo and Calf,	1 Kangaroo,
Young Lions,	1 Giant Russian Bear,
Black Wolf,	1 Ostrich,
Coyote,	1 Baby Leopard,
Dwarf Chinese Cow,	1 Baby Jaguar,
Black Bears,	1 Pony (Cuba),
Full-Mane Lions,	1 Wapiti,
Polar Bears,	1 Elk,
Pumas and Panthers,	1 Cinnamon Bear,
Lionesses,	1 Cape Lion,
Male Lion,	1 Young Cape Lion,
Sloth,	2 Senegal Lionesses,
Zebu,	2 Russian Wolves,
Brahmin Bull,	3 Canadian Wolves,

The building, being of wood, with a shell of corrugated iron on the outside, burned like a tinder box. As it happened, only two visitors were in the building; they escaped safely. The attendants of the animals tried to rescue their pets, but the fierce rush of the

The loss was $200,000, with $50,000 insurance.

GOVERNORS OF MARYLAND.

List of rulers prior to 1776, prepared by Dr. Bernard C. Steiner, Dr. F. E. Sparks and Mr. H. O. Thompson.

1. William Claiborne governed Kent Island under the authority of Virginia from August, 1631, to 1633.
2. Leonard Calvert, commissioned by Cecilius, Lord Proprietary in 1633, arrived in Maryland March 25, 1634; died June 19, 1647. From February, 1645, until the fall of 1646 he was in Virginia, whither he fled from Edward Ingle, who usurped the government and ruled for some months. After Ingle left there was anarchy for a year, until the Council chose Capt. Edward Hill as Governor. This appointment was confirmed by Leonard Calvert.
During Leonard Calvert's absences from the province, the following acted as Governor by his appointment:
John Lewger, April, 1638; Capt. Thomas Cornwalles, May to August, 1638, and May to July, 1641; Capt. Giles Brent, April 11, 1643, to September, 1644; William Brainthwayt, September and October, 1644; Capt. Edward Hill, July to autumn, 1646.
3. Thomas Greene, named by Leonard Calvert as his successor; served until March, 1649.
4. William Stone, commissioned by the Proprietary August 6, 1648; assumed office April, 1649; deposed by Parliamentary Commissioners March 29, 1652. During absences from the province the following acted as Governor by his appointment: Thomas Green, May to July and September to December, 1649; Thomas Hutton, June, 1650.
5. Richard Bennett, Edmund Curtis and William Claiborne, Parliamentary Commissioners, March 29 to June 28, 1652.
6. William Stone restored by Parliamentary Commissioners, and ordered to issue writs in the name of the "Keepers of the Liberties of England." Deposed by the Commissioners, July, 1654, because he ordered writs to run in the Proprietaries' name.
7. Commissioners named by the Parliamentary Commissioners on July 22, 1654, with subsequent additions to fill vacancies made by the Provincial Court. The original appointees were: Capt. William Fuller, Richard Preston, Wm. Durand, Edward Lloyd, John Smith, Leonard Strong, John Lawson, John Hatch, Richard Wells and Richard Ewen. The subsequent appointees were: Sampson Waring, William Parker and William Parrott, December 5, 1654; Capt. Robert Sly, April 24, 1655; Thos. Meeres, August 22, 1655; Woodman Stockley, October 5, 1655; Michael Brooke and John Potts, December 26, 1655; Philip Morgan, Wm. Ewens, Thomas Thomas, Philip Thomas, Samuel Withers and Richard Woolman, March, 1657.
8. Josias Fendall, commissioned by the Proprietary July 10, 1656, received formal surrender of government from Fuller and the other Commissioners March 24, 1658. While absent from the province he appointed Luke Barber to serve, June, 1657, to February, 1658.
9. Philip Calvert, brother of the Proprietary, commissioned by him June 24, 1660; administered the government as early as October, 1660.
10. Charles Calvert, son of the Proprietary, commissioned by him September 14, 1661; exercised authority as early as November, 1661; succeeded as Lord Proprietary on his father's death, November 30, 1675. During his absence from the province, he appointed Philip Calvert as Acting Governor, May, 1669, to July, 1670, and from then to November, 1670, Philip Calvert, William Calvert, Jerome White and Baker Brooke.
11. Cecilius Calvert, infant son of the Proprietary, left as titular Governor by commission dated June 16, 1676. Government actually carried on by Jesse Wharton as Deputy Governor until his death, July, 1676, and then by Thomas Notley, Deputy Governor.
12. Thomas Notley commissioned by the Proprietary October 14, 1676.
13. Charles Calvert, Lord Proprietary, governed in person from January, 1679, to May, 1684.
14. Benedict Leonard Calvert, infant son of the Proprietary, left as titular Governor. Government carried on by the Council, Vincent Lowe, Henry Darnall, Wm. Digges, Wm. Burgess, Nicholas Sewall, Edward Pye, Clement Hill, Henry Coursey and Henry Lowe.
15. William Joseph, commissioned by the Proprietary as President of the Council and Acting Governor July 23, 1688, took charge of the government October 3, 1688, surrendered to the revolutionists August 1, 1689.
16. John Coode, Henry Jowles, Kenel Cheseldyne, John Kurling, Jol Campbell, Ninian Beall, Humphre Warren, Committee of the Protestant Freeman, seized the government August 1, 1689.

GOVERNORS OF MARYLAND—Continued.

17. Convention of the freemen, August 22 to September 4, 1689.
18. John Coode commander in chief, by what authority is unknown, as the convention provided for no central power.
19. Provincial convention, April, 1690.
20. John Coode and a committee of two from each county appointed by the convention, April to August, 1690.
21. Nehemiah Blakistone left by Coode as his successor, August, 1690, while Coode goes to England.
22. Sir Lionel Copley, first Royal Governor, commissioned by William and Mary March 12, 1691, assumed authority April 6, 1692; died September, 1693. Sir Thomas Lawrence, Secretary of the Province and President of the Council, seems to have taken charge of affairs for a short time in September, 1693.
23. Sir Edmund Andros, Governor of Virginia, commissioned by William and Mary March 3, 1692, to act as Governor in case of absence of Copley and death of Nicholson, took possession of the government September 25, 1693. He left Col. Nicholas Greenberry, President of the Council, as his deputy until May, 1694, when Sir Thomas Lawrence was reinstated.
24. Francis Nicholson, commissioned by William and Mary February 24, 1692, to succeed Copley in event of his death or absence, recommissioned February 10, 1693-4: assumed authority July 26, 1694.
25. Nathaniel Blakiston, commissioned by William October 19, 1698, assumed authority January 2, 1698-9.
26. Thomas Tench, President of the Council, left in charge of the government when Blakiston sailed for England, June 30, 1702.
27. John Seymour, commissioned by the Crown February 12, 1702-3, took charge of the government April 12, 1704; died July 30, 1709.
28. Edward Lloyd, President of the Council, was so chosen by the Council on Seymour's death, as Francis Jenkins, the first member of the Council, took no action.
29. Capt. John Hart, commissioned by the Crown January 17, 1714, recommissioned by the Lord Proprietary May 30, 1715, arrived in the province May 29, 1714. He went to England in 1620, leaving Thos. Brooke, President of the Council, in charge of affairs.
30. Capt. Charles Calvert, cousin of the Proprietary commissioned by him February (?), 1719-20, arrived in the province as early as October, 1720.
31. Benedict Leonard Calvert, commission dated March 24, 1726-7, took oath of office July 3, 1727.
32. Samuel Ogle, commission dated September 16, 1731, took oath of office December 7, 1731.
33. Charles Calvert, Lord Proprietary, in person, December 11, 1732.
34. Samuel Ogle, commission dated June 20, 1733, took oath of office July 11, 1733.
35. Thomas Bladen, commission dated April 19, 1742, took oath of office August 23, 1742.
36. Samuel Ogle, commission dated October 3, 1746, took oath of office March 16, 1746-7.
37. Benjamin Tasker, President of the Council, took oath of office May 4, 1752, the day after Ogle's death.
38. Horatio Sharpe, commissioned on March 17, 1753, took oath of office August 10, 1753.
39. Capt. Robert Eden, brother-in-law of the Proprietary, commissioned August 1, 1768, arrived in the province June, 1769. (During his absence in England, from May 28 to November 8, 1774, Richard Lee, President of the Council, acted as Governor. Eden left Annapolis June 26, 1776, and Lee was titular Governor until the province formally declared its independence of Great Britain, July 4, 1776.

During the years 1774 to 1776 more and more of the powers of government came to be exercised by popular bodies, though the authority of the Governor was still acknowledged until Eden's departure. These popular bodies were:

COUNCILS OF SAFETY EXERCISING POWER IN THE INTERVALS BETWEEN CONVENTIONS.

1. August 14, 1775 (first met August 29). This and all other committees served from the close of the convention at which they were elected to the close of the one next succeeding. Eight were from each shore of the bay. Daniel, of St. Thomas Jenifer, President; Matthew Tilghman, Thomas Johnson, Thos. Smyth, Henry Hooper, William Paca, John Beale Bordley (declined to serve), Richard Lloyd, Edward Lloyd, James Hollyday, Charles Carroll, Barrister; Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Thomas Stone, Samuel Chase, Robert Alexander, Robert Goldsborough.
2. January 17, 1776 (first met January 18). Daniel, of St. Thomas Jenifer, President; Charles Carroll, Barrister, John Hall, Benjamin Rumsey, James Tilghman, Thomas Smyth, Thomas Bedingfield Hands.
3. May 25, 1776 (first met May 27). Daniel, of St. Thomas Jenifer, President; Charles Carroll, Barrister; John Hall, Benjamin Rumsey, George Plater, James Tilghman, Thomas Smyth, Thomas Bedingfield Hands, William Hayward.
4. July 5, 1776 (first met July 6). Daniel, of St. Thomas Jenifer, President; John Hall, Geo. Plater, Charles Carroll, Barrister; Benjamin Rumsey, Thomas Smyth, Jas. Tilghman, Joseph Nicholson, Jr., Thomas Bedingfield Hands (declined), and Nicholas Thomas appointed in his place September 17, 1776).
5. November 10, 1776 (first met November 12). Served until March 20, 1777. March 21, Senate adopted a resolution, followed by the House on the 22d, dissolving the council of safety because the new government was organized. The Legislature had been in session since February 5. Daniel, of St. Thomas Jenifer; John Hall, George Plater, Brice Thomas Beale Worthington, Joseph Nicholson, Chas. Grahame (declined), Thos. Contee (chosen to fill Grahame's place), James Tilghman (declined), William Rumsey (declined), Samuel Wilson (chosen to fill Tilghman's place), William Hemsley (chosen to fill Rumsey's place, declined), James Lloyds Chamberlaine (appointed by Council January 3, 1777, to fill Hemsley's place, declined), Turbutt Wright (appointed by council February 3, 1777, to fill Chamberlaine's place).

THE LARGEST STEAMSHIPS.

The White Star Line steamer Celtic, the largest vessel, as measured by cubic feet, ever built, was successfully launched at Belfast, Ireland, April 4, 1901. The Celtic's handsome elder sister, the Oceanic, the queen of the White Star fleet, is still the longest ship in the world, but the Celtic has more beam, and her gross tonnage is 20,880, as compared with 17,274. Her displacement at a load draft of 36 feet 6 inches will be 36,700 tons, as compared with the modern battle ship's 14,000 tons and the Great Eastern's 32,160 tons.

The dimensions of the largest Atlantic steamships are as follows:

Vessel.	Length. Feet.	Breadth. Feet.	Depth. Feet.	Tons Gross.
Great Eastern.....	691	82.8	48.2	18,915
Campania.....	620	65	43	12,950
K. Wilhelm der Grosse..	626.7	66	39	14,349
Oceanic.....	705	68	49	17,274
Deutschland.....	660.9	67.3	40.3	16,502
Celtic.....	680.9	75	44.1	20,880

The North German Lloyd steamship the Kronprinz Wilhelm made her maiden voyage from Cherbourg to New York, 3,045 knots, in 6 days 10 hours 15 minutes, but on the voyage made the fastest day's run of a maiden trip. The days' runs were 359, 375, 383, 473, 564, 575 and 315 knots to Sandy Hook Lightship. Average speed was 19.74 knots.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm is of the same type as the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, but is 15 feet longer. Her dimensions are: Length, 663 feet; beam, 66 feet, and depth, 43 feet. Her gross registered tonnage is 15,000 and her displacement is 21,300 tons. There are accommodations for nearly 2,000 passengers of all classes on the ship, and the crew numbers 520, all told.

As a testimonial of appreciation the passengers subscribed $500 for a silver service for Captain Stormer.

STEERABLE BALLOONS.

In a steerable balloon of his own invention M. Santos Dumont, a young Brazilian living in Paris, won, on October 19, 1901, a prize of $20,000 offered by M. Henry Deutsch for a balloon which would travel from the park of the Aero Club, at St. Cloud, around the Eiffel Tower and back again in 30 minutes. The distance is 9½ miles. M. Santos Dumont won the prize according to the view of the donor, but the committee of judges decided that his time was 30 minutes 40 seconds—less than a minute too much. This decision, however, was subsequently rectified and the cash paid, which the inventor distributed among his workmen and the poor of Paris.

M. Santos Dumont makes his balloon steerable by means of a rudder and a propeller worked with a petroleum motor. It is admitted that he has not solved the problem of aerial navigation, for his airship cannot live in strong winds. However, it represents a great advance on previous efforts, because it can be sailed in any direction, and, in fact, represents a long-sought object—a steerable balloon.

Seven attempts were made by M. Santos-Dumont before his effort to win the prize offered by M. Henry Deutsch. Six airships have been constructed by the young Brazilian, each being regarded by the inventor as an improvement on its predecessor. He made a trial of his first steerable balloon in September, 1898, when he proved the possibility of steering an airship. Further tests and trials were intermittent during 18 months at Nice and Paris.

On three occasions in his attempts for the prize—July 13, August 8 and September 10—M. Santos-Dumont narrowly escaped disaster from his balloon being driven against trees or high buildings.

He is 28 years old. He was born at Rio de Janeiro in 1873, his father being the "coffee king" of Sao Paulo. On his mother's side he is of French descent. At 12 years of age he drove steam engines on his father's railways and became a clever mechanic.

FARM APPRENTICES.

The work in the dairy and horticultural divisions of the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station is now done by farm apprentices. The apprenticeships are open to farmers' sons, and offers to young men with a good common school education the opportunity to become skilled in this kind of work. It will enable young farmers to engage in some of the farming specialties intelligently. The Experiment Station will board and lodge the apprentice, or pay the equivalent in money, according as desired. A dairy apprentice is expected to stay six months and a horticultural apprentice one year. The station will furnish the instruction and facilities for instruction given in the several branches pertaining to the specialty taken up. The plan is to divide the work which would ordinarily be performed by one laborer among three apprentices. Only a limited number can be accommodated, and the vacancies will be filled in the order in which application is made.

STEEL FLOATING DRY DOCK.

October 15, 1901, a large steel floating dry dock, constructed by the Maryland Steel Company at Sparrow's Point for the United States Government, started on a voyage of 2,000 miles, towed by powerful sea-going tugs, to Algiers, La., where it will be put into service.

The dock is 525 feet in length over all, while its breadth is 126 feet 2 7-16 inches. The width between the sides is 100 feet. The entire height of the sides, from their bottoms, which are submerged, to the tops, is 55 feet. The depth of the pontoons is 17 feet 6 inches. The greatest draft of the dock is 49 feet 6 inches. There are three pontoons, which form the floor, and also, with the sides, give it buoyancy. The middle pontoon is the largest, being 242 feet long. The end pontoons are each 141 feet $\frac{3}{8}$ inch in length. The walls are 395 feet $\frac{5}{8}$ inch long and are 9 feet in width at the top and 13 feet at the bottom. The pontoons and sides are divided into 40 water-tight compartments, which enable the dock to be completely under the control of the dock master, who can make it assume any position required to dock a vessel. It has 261 keel blocks, upon which a vessel may rest in the dock, and the blocks are movable. The weight of the steel in the dock is 5,865 tons and the weight of the dock equipment is 1,000 tons, making a total weight of 6,865 tons. The cost of the dock complete was \$810,000.

It is certain that this immense piece of marine mechanism for lifting great vessels out of water in order to clean or repair them is without a superior in its line, and it is doubtful whether it has an equal. It can raise a 15,000-ton battle ship and have the floor of the dock 2 feet above the water, which is demanded by the Government for its work, but with the floor even with the water line it can lift an 18,000-ton ship.

Another remarkable fact concerning the dock is that she is able to dock herself for cleaning and painting.

The William Skinner & Sons Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company at Baltimore was opened November 25, 1901. With the exception of one at Newport News, Va., this dry dock is the largest in the United States. The following are its dimensions:

	Feet.
Length over all.....	628
Length on keel blocks.....	600
Width of entrance at bottom.....	60
Width of entrance at top.....	80
Width of dock on floor.....	62
Width of dock at coping.....	125

GOLD BULLION ROBBERY IN CALIFORNIA.

John Winters, an employee of the Selby Smelting and Lead Company in Contra Costa county, California, broke open the vault of the company on the night of August 5, 1901, and got away with $283,000 worth of gold bullion, all of which was subsequently recovered. The robbery was committed by tunneling from the outside of the building under the vault, the works being on the bay shore, 30 miles from San Francisco. The aggregate weight of the bullion was nearly 1,200 pounds of fine gold, worth $20 an ounce. It is almost incredible that a single man, without assistance, should have been able to accomplish such a robbery, but Winters declared he had no help whatever. He planned it long before, and worked at night for three months on the tunnel. A shaft was sunk below the foundation of the building and the tunnel was run from it to the vault. Holes were bored in the iron floor until an aperture was made sufficiently large to admit a man. Evidence to connect Winters with the robbery was found in his cabin, and when he finally broke down and confessed the crime, piloted the officers of the law to the spot where he had sunk the treasure in canvas bags at the bottom of the bay, from the mud of which it was recovered with difficulty, he said he had to make 14 trips from the vault to the wharf from which he dropped the gold into the water. He also said he threw most of his tools into the bay.

The way he was brought to confess his guilt and help to make restitution is interesting. He had stood the inquisition of detectives without weakening. Then he was taken in hand by Mr. Von der Ropp, the superintendent of the smelting works, who went up to the prisoner and, placing his hand on the man's shoulder, said:

"See here, Winters, you might just as well own up and tell us where that gold is. We have evidence to convict you and will send you up for 30 years. While you are in prison we will find the gold if we have to dredge every foot of the bay near the smelter. We know it's there and we will get it. You have no possible chance of spending any of that money. If you confess and return the gold your chance will be much better, as thieves who plead guilty and return the booty are treated leniently. If you desire to have a taste of Contra Costa county justice, you can have your way. Those farmers are roused to intense anger at your crime, and if you are taken back, as you must be, a rope awaits you."

As he concluded Von der Ropp drew his hand suggestively across his own neck. The effect was instantaneous. Winters' nerve, weak from the long strain, gave way. He turned deadly pale, hesitated a moment, and said:

"I will tell you the whole truth, and show you where I put the gold."

TEXAS OIL FIELDS.

During the year 1901 the development of the oil fields in Southwestern Texas made rapid progress. The oil region is a marshy, leveled prairie, fit only for rice cultivation, with underlying rock of recent Quarternary formation. In 1899, A. F. Lucas, with associates, from Pittsburg, Pa., began boring for oil, but without success, on account of immense beds of quicksand found in his way. By telescoping the pipes let down as the anger descended, he at length got a fine flow of oil from a depth of about 1,300 feet. The first upflow, in fact, carried his pipe, weighing six tons, to a height of 300 feet. On January 13, 1901, the outpour of oil was about 1,000 barrels an hour and increasing. Sometimes the column of oil would reach a height of 600 feet. The flow was beyond control, but much of the oil was saved by turning it into a natural depression of 50 acres, while some 300 men were employed in building levees and excavating reservoirs for temporary storage. Tanks followed in due course, and pipe lines to convey the oil to the seaside at Beaumont or Sabine Pass. No other oil region in this country is so near the sea or so conveniently situated for the export trade. The oil is light, having a paraffine base and some sulphur, and gives a good percentage of illuminating oil. Naturally, the discovery attracted investors and laborers in great number.

WRECK OF STEAMSHIP CITY OF JANEIRO.

The Pacific Mail steamship City of Rio de Janeiro, which sailed from Hong-kong January 22, 1901, was wrecked February 22, at 5.30 o'clock A. M., on the rocks, in a fog, and less than a mile outside of San Francisco, the port of destination. The vessel went down in about 15 minutes in 30 fathoms of water, off Fort Point. Capt. William Ward, the ship's master, went down with the wreck. The steamship carried a crew of 140 men, 29 cabin passengers and 58 Chinese steerage. Only 79 of the whole number were saved. Among the passengers lost were Rounseville Wildman, Consul-General at Hong-kong; Mrs. Rounseville Wildman, two children and nurse.

The vessel struck Mile Rock head on, crushed in her bows and began to fill immediately. The crew, headed by Capt. Ward and his assistants, kept the Chinese and the male whites off while the boats were being lowered. By this time the Rio had backed off and was settling down by the head. Women passengers were hurried into the lifeboats, but as the ship was going down fast confusion got the better of heads that were not cool and there was a struggle to get into the smaller craft. Some of the Chinese and male passengers on the after deck jumped overboard. No one can say just how many took to the water, but it is supposed that about 40 went over the side. The fog kept settling down on the bay and it became difficult to see a ship's length from the bows. She was an iron vessel, built at Chester, Pa., in 1878 by Roach & Son. She was 344 feet long, 38 feet beam and 28.9 feet deep, and registered 3,548 tons gross and 2,279 tons net.

OKLAHOMA LAND LOTTERY.

The Kiowa, Comanche and Apache lands in the southern part of Oklahoma, embracing about 2,560,000 acres, were opened to settlement by proclamation issued by President McKinley, July 7, 1901. The lands had been bought from the Indians for $2,000,000 and the grant of special privileges to them in settling on part of the lands.

Of these lands, about 960,000 acres went to the Indians by first choice, leaving about 1,600,000 to be distributed to white settlers.

It was provided by the proclamation that any person qualified under the homestead laws of the United States—that is, who is the head of a family, or a male 21 years old or more, or who has served in the Army or Navy—could have a chance to get a section embracing 160 acres. The method of allotment was as follows:

From July 10 to July 26 all applicants who were qualified under the homestead laws were registered at El Reno and Lawton, Okla., on their personal applications. The name and description of each was put in a sealed envelope and numbered.

Beginning July 29 there was a public drawing of lots at El Reno. The number of applicants was 165,865, and each had about 1 chance in 13 of winning. The envelopes were put in a drawing box, as were also slips containing corresponding numbers. These were mixed, and then the drawing took place, the numbers being drawn from the boxes by 10 boys selected for the purpose.

The selection of lots was made by the applicants in the order in which their names were drawn. Those whose names were among the first chosen could select lots near the town sites,

DOMESTIC POSTAL RATES.

Classes.	Postage.	Weight.
I. Letters and sealed packages, Postal cards,	2 cents each ounce or fraction. 1 cent.	No limit.
II. Newspapers and periodical publications that have been entered as 2d-class matter, when mailed by persons other than the publishers,	1 cent each 4 ounces or fraction.	No limit.
III. Circulars, books, and matter wholly in print, engravings, lithographs, photographs, blank checks, deeds, insurance policies, etc., proof with manuscript accompanying same, and other matter not in nature of personal correspondence, visiting cards, business cards, etc.	1 cent each 2 ounces or fraction.	4 lbs.
IV. Merchandise and matter not included in any of above classes,	1 cent each ounce or fraction.	4 lbs.

REGULATIONS.

Class 1. Includes letters, postal cards, sealed packages, all matter wholly or partly in writing, whether manuscript or produced by typewriter or copying press, books with written entries, manuscript for publication not accompanied by proof sheets, and all personal correspondence, whether in writing or in print. No writing or printing is allowed on the address side of postal cards except the address.

Class 2. Nearly every newspaper and magazine published in the United States belongs to the second class, and foreign publications which, if issued here, would be admitted to that class, may be mailed at the rate given above. Second-class matter must be so enveloped that it can be readily examined without destroying the wrappers. When mailed by publishers or news agents, the rate is 1 cent for each pound or fraction thereof.

Class 3. Single books may be sent at the third-class rate, even though they may exceed the 4-pound limit of weight.

The sender may write or print on a label, tag, envelope or wrapper of third-class matter, his own name, occupation, and residence or business address, preceded by the word "from."

Class 4. There are specific regulations for packing merchandise and samples of goods sent as fourth-class matter. Proprietary articles, such as powders, pills, fancy soaps, may be sent in original packages, sealed. Seeds and other articles requiring to be specially protected may be put in sealed envelopes if the envelopes are transparent enough to permit the nature of the contents to be ascertained. Admissible liquids, oils, pastes, salves, ointments, fresh fruits and vegetables liable to decomposition, etc., may be sent under specified regulations.

PROHIBITED MATTER.

The following articles are unmailable under any circumstances: Liquids, ardent, vinous, spirituous or malt, or those liable to explosion or spontaneous combustion; inflammable oils, poisons, explosives; animals, alive or dead (stuffed natural specimens excepted); explosive or poisonous powders, matches, insects (except queen bees and their attendant bees and dried insects when safely secured), substances exhaling an offensive odor; all articles not properly packed which are liable to destroy, deface or damage other mail matter, or to harm the person of anyone in the postal service; obscene and indecent books, prints, writings or papers; all letters upon the envelopes of which, or postal cards upon which, indecent, scurrilous or defamatory delineations or language are written or printed; all matter concerning lotteries, so-called gift concerts, or other similar enterprises offering prizes, or concerning schemes devised or intended to defraud the public, or for the purpose of obtaining money under false pretenses.

PARCELS POST.

Unsealed packages of mailable merchandise may be sent by parcels post to Jamaica, Barbadoes, the Bahamas, British Honduras, Mexico, Chili, Germany, Leeward Islands, Republic of Colombia, Salvador, Costa Rica, Danish West Indies, British Guiana, Newfoundland, Trinidad, Windward Islands, the Republic of Honduras, Nicaragua, Venezuela and New Zealand at postage rate of 12 cents per pound or fraction thereof. Limit of weight, 11 pounds. Packages must be mailed between 9 A. M. and 5 P. M., and a customs declaration signed by senders at the postoffice. The exception is Chili, to which country the rate is 20 cents per pound.

Registered Matter.—The rate on registered packages and letters is 8 cents, in addition to regular postage.

Postage to Canada and Mexico, same rates and conditions of prepayment as for domestic matter.

MARYLAND BANKERS' ASSOCIATION.

Officers Elected at Baltimore November 14, 1901.

President—Charles C. Homer, Baltimore.
Sec'y—Lawrence B. Kemp, Baltimore. Treas.—William Marriott, Baltimore.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

Charles S. Lane, Hagerstown.
Stevenson A. Williams, Belair.
David Sloan, Lonaconing.
William T. Warburton, Elkton.
William Dale, Pocomoke City.
Charles W. Dorsey, Baltimore.
John D. Wheeler, Baltimore.

ADMINISTRATION COMMITTEE.

Robert Shriver, Cumberland.
Joshua W. Hering, Westminster.
J. Wirt Randall, Annapolis.
William T. Dixon, Baltimore.
John B. Ramsay, Baltimore.

The Maryland Bankers' Association, at its opening session, November 13, 1901, declared in favor of "asset currency," as follows:

"Whereas the constantly recurring periods of financial stringency, particularly at crop-moving time, are directly traceable to the nonflexibility of our bank-note currency as now constituted; and

"Whereas such periods of money tightness are extremely hurtful to the general prosperity of the country, by reason of the inevitable check upon trade and the often ruinous unsettling of values; and

"Whereas research and study have demonstrated beyond question that a currency based solely upon the assets of the banks can be so safeguarded as to make it absolutely secure; therefore,

"Resolved, That we reaffirm our recommendations in favor of the creation of an elastic asset currency, to overcome the periodical inadequacy, characteristic of our present system, but so safeguarded and protected as to furnish unquestioned security to the noteholder.

"Resolved, That our Representatives and Senators in Congress be and they are urged to favor such amendments to the National Banking act as will provide a safe and elastic asset currency for the national banks, and that a committee of three be appointed by the chairman to urge upon appropriate congressional committees the adoption of the legislation desired."

The committee appointed under the resolution was John B. Ramsay, Chas. C. Homer, J. Wirt Randall.

Joshua W. Hering, J. Wirt Randall and William Marriott were named a committee to secure uniformity of forms in banking correspondence.

The America's Cup is known in England as the "One Hundred Guinea Cup" of the Royal Yacht Squadron. After winning it with the America in 1851, J. C. Stevens and G. L. Schuyler, the owners, offered the cup to the New York Yacht Club, subject to the conditions:

1. That any organized yacht club of any foreign country should ever be entitled to claim the right of sailing a match for this cup.

2. That the cup should be the property of the "club," and not of the members thereof, nor of the owners of the vessel winning it in the match.

Since 1897 the races have been restricted to two yachts representing, respectively, challenger and challenged.

INTERNATIONAL YACHT RACE, 1901.

In the international yacht race for the America Cup, off the Sandy Hook lightship, in 1901, the Columbia out-sailed Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock II, as she had done in 1899, when the Shamrock I was her antagonist.

The contests of 1901, best three in five, over a course of 30 miles, began September 26. This race, 15 miles and return, was declared off, owing to failure, to finish within the time limit, 5½ hours. The Columbia held the lead by 7 minutes 15 seconds.

On September 28, 15 miles and return, the Columbia was the winner by 1 minute 20 seconds.

On October 1, over a triangular course, 10 miles to each leg, the race was declared off, owing to failure to finish within time limit. The distance covered was 14½ miles, with Shamrock II half a mile in the lead.

October 3 the race, over a triangular course, was won by the Columbia in 3 minutes 35 seconds.

October 4 the race, 15 miles and return, was won by the Columbia in 41 seconds.

The sailing qualities of the competing yachts were fairly tested, and the result proved that Shamrock II was a worthy competitor of the unapproachable Columbia.

FIRST RACE, SEPTEMBER 28.

Racing Measurement—Shamrock II, 103.79; Columbia, 102.355.
Time Allowance—Columbia, 43 seconds.

Yachts.	Start.	Outer Mark.	Finish.	Elap. Time.	Cor. Time.

Shamrock II,	11 00 13	11 51 10	12 45 51	2 16 23	3 16 10	3 16 10

Columbia wins by 3 minutes 35 seconds.

Course—Thirty miles, triangular, 10 miles to each leg, starting from Sandy Hook lightship.

THIRD RACE, OCTOBER 4.

Yachts.	Start.	Outer Mark.	Finish.	Elap. Time.	Cor. Time.
Columbia,	11 02	12 49 35	3 35 40	4 33 40	4 32 57
Shamrock II,	11 02	12 48 46	3 35 38	4 33 38	4 33 38

Columbia wins by 41 seconds.

Course—Fifteen miles to leeward and return, 30 miles, starting from Sandy Hook lightship.

COLUMBIA.

Launched June 10, 1899, Bristol, R. I.

Designer—Capt. Nat. Herreshoff.

Owner—J. Pierpont Morgan, N. Y.

Captain—Charles Barr.

Club—New York Yacht Club.

Length of load water line, 89.77 feet.

Length from the after end of the main boom to the end of the point of measurement or the end of the bowsprit, 182.87 feet.

The fore side of the mast to the end of point of measurement or end of bowsprit, as above, 73.86 feet.

Length of spinnaker boom, 73.30 feet.

Length of main gaff, 64.94 feet.

Length of topmast, 64.64 feet, minus one-fifth, 51.71 feet.

Upper side of main boom to the top-sail halyard block, 134.74 feet.

The square root of the sail area, 114.94 square feet.

The sailing length, 102.355 feet.

SHAMROCK II.

Launched April 20, 1901, at Dum-barton, Scotland.

Designer—G. L. Watson.

Owner—Sir Thomas Lipton.

Captain—William Sycamore.

Club—Royal Ulster Yacht Club.

Length of load-water line, 89.25 feet.

Length from the after end of the main boom to the end of the point of measurement, or the end of the bowsprit where the jib topsail halyard block is fastened, 184.03 feet.

The fore side of mast to the end of point of measurement, or end of bowsprit, as above, 78.28 feet.

Length of spinnaker boom, 78.28 feet.

Length of main gaff, 66.17 feet.

Length of topmast, 68.18 feet, minus one-fifth, 54.54 feet.

Upper side of main boom to the top-sail halyard block, 143.39 feet.

Square root of sail area, 118.33 sq. ft.

Sailing length, 103.79 feet.

Both boats were measured with 52 men on board. The difference in the sailing length of the two boats is 1.435 feet. This computed on the time allowance of the New York Yacht Club gives the Columbia an allowance of 43 seconds in a 30-mile race.

MARYLAND DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM, 1901.

Adopted at Ford's Opera House, Baltimore, August 1, 1901. Buchanan Schley, of Washington county, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions; Jacob Newman, of Frederick county, chairman of the Convention.

"We reaffirm our steadfast allegiance to the cardinal doctrines of the Democratic party as expounded by its illustrious founder, Thomas Jefferson, and our undiminished belief that adherence to these doctrines will best preserve in its original integrity and strength the constitutional government established by the fathers of the Republic."

OYSTER LAW.

It was declared that the oyster legislation of 1900 had "thus far met the expectations of its framers," but that "objections to some of its details which experience has developed, as well as some defects which have been noticed, can be remedied, and we favor such appropriate amendments as will remove all reasonable ground of complaint and make the law thoroughly effective and satisfactory."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

"We have good reason to be proud of our admirable school system, but as the State advances and education becomes more general the methods of administering our public schools must be improved to keep pace with the public demand, and to remove well-founded complaint and dissatisfaction.

"Above all things, they should be conducted without reference to politics, and should be absolutely free from partisan interference or dictation.

"Teachers should be appointed and retained for their fitness only, and should be safe from removal except for cause, after reasonable opportunity to be heard in their own defense.

"We accordingly recommend the passage by the next Legislature of an act providing for the appointment by the Governor of a commission of prominent citizens, selected irrespective of their political views, from among those who are personally interested in the improvement and efficiency of our public schools, whose duty it shall be to examine into their condition and management, and to report what amendments of our existing law are necessary to reform whatever shall be found defective in their administration; and in the method of appointment and tenure of the commissioners.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

"We heartily commend the wisdom and courage of Governor John Walter Smith in calling the recent extra session of the Legislature, and we feel that our thanks are due to our Democratic Senators and Delegates for the admirable and conservative legislation enacted at that session in the face of many and serious difficulties. * * *

"Indeed, the alternative presented to the Governor of accepting as true a false and fraudulent enumeration of our population, deliberately made to serve dishonest political purposes, or of putting the State to the expense of an extra session of the Legislature to frustrate so disreputable a conspiracy, was one as to which there was no room for serious hesitation, and we confidently appeal to the people to indorse his action in this important matter, and to approve by their votes the prompt response of the Legislature to his call.

"We believe that our elections should be controlled by the votes of our own people exclusively, and that persons who permanently reside outside the limits of the State should not be permitted to register and vote. We therefore declare our hearty approval of the amendment passed at the special session covering this important subject.

"Indeed, the startling revelation made by our recent State census that our registration books contain many thousands of names of voters who could not be found, is of itself a complete vindication of the necessity of this amendment and an effectual answer to those who are now asking for its repeal.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

"We favor the passage of a general law relating to primary elections and applicable to the whole State, so drawn as to reform abuses, wherever complained of and to secure to all political parties the selection of candidates chosen by methods beyond objection or reproach.

"We pledge our party to the continuance of an economical administration of our State finances, and to such legislation as will keep down to the lowest proper limit the burdens of taxation.

WHITE MEN TO CONTROL.

"The Democratic party represents more than 40,000 majority of the white people of Maryland. They in common with their brethren of other States into which large masses of colored voters have been injected into the body politic recognize that the peace, good order, personal safety and proper development of our material interests depend upon the control of the Commonwealth by its intelligent white residents. Without the aid of the 60,000 colored voters the Republican party in Maryland would be a hopeless minority.

"We, therefore, without hesitation proclaim that the success of the Democratic party will mean that while we shall deal with perfect fairness in securing all the benefits of good government and full and free opportunities for education to all classes, such action must be taken as to prevent the control of the State government from passing into the hands of those who have neither the ability nor the interest to manage public affairs wisely and well."

MARYLAND REPUBLICAN PLATFORM, 1901.

Adopted at Ford's Opera House, Baltimore, August 6, 1901. Ashley M. Gould, of Montgomery, chairman of Committee on Resolutions; George A. Pearre, of Allegany, chairman of the Convention.

"The Republicans of Maryland, in State Convention assembled, reaffirm the national platform adopted at Philadelphia. * * *

"The Republican party, which re-deemed all its pledges to the people of our State, now gives these new promises, which it will as surely perform.

"In the words of our own declaration of rights, we reaffirm that 'the right of the people to participate in the legislature is the best security of liberty and the foundation of all free government, and every male citizen having the qualifications prescribed by the Constitution ought to have the right of suffrage.' Therefore, a Republican Legislature will repeal our unconstitutional Election law and enact the bill prepared by the same association that formulated the Election law of 1896, and restore manhood suffrage in Maryland.

"It will enact the Corrupt Practices bill prepared by the same organization, and thereby decrease or prevent the bribery of voters.

"It will take out of politics the police of Baltimore city, secure appointments by the merit system and put an end to promotions and dismissals for political reasons. It will pass a new police bill prepared by the same organization.

"It will regulate primary elections. It will adopt a compulsory primary election law, and make the primaries as fair as it has made our general elections.

"It will bring the local control of the schools in the counties near to the school district, and yet remove it further from partisan politics.

"It never legislates in reckless disregard of business interests, but it is ready by law to curb and defeat organized trusts which stifle competition in trade, and to suppress all combinations which create a monopoly. It passed the only Federal laws against trusts, and in this State will handle these problems with conservatism and courage.

"The oyster and crab industries of Maryland give employment and support to a large part of our population. In the packing houses and on board the numerous craft that take oysters from the waters of the State, capital and labor join hands, and any legislation may be declared unwise and hurtful that needlessly hampers the legitimate operations of the one or burdens or curtails the privileges of the other.

"We condemn the Democratic State Oyster law of 1900, in that it has created a small army of officials selected from the mercantile and other avocations, with almost unlimited powers, and has worked great hardship upon both the packer and boatman, and placed burdens upon the whole oyster industry too grievous to be borne.

"The oyster beds and bars in some sections of the State are much worn and need replenishing; from these bottoms many thousand sturdy citizens take their livelihood, and bring in large measure to their various communities what prosperity they enjoy.

"The Republican party, as in the past, pledges its best efforts in behalf of this most worthy class, and favors that legislation which will revive and replenish these oyster bottoms at public expense. All the rights which the oystermen and crabbers have had in the past shall remain to and be enjoyed by them, and not pass into the possession of a certain few who are depending upon Democratic legislation to abridge ancient rights and grab public territory.

"It will favor the planting of oyster shells on the barren bottoms of our rivers and bays, and the enactment of intelligent legislation to conserve the important fish industry of the State."

FIRES IN BERLIN, WORCESTER CO., MD.

On Tuesday, November 12, 1901, the town of Berlin, Worcester county, experienced a disastrous fire, causing a loss of property valued at about $30,000, which was only partly covered by insurance. The buildings burned included 2 banks, 1 church, the Odd Fellows' Hall, 3 dwelling houses, 6 stores and other property. The fire began just where the fire of 1895 was stopped, and finished the work which that conflagration had nearly accomplished. The buildings burned were mostly, if not all, of wood. The rebuilding after 1895 was of brick, but was on both occasions without water works or fire apparatus.

Sunday night, August 4, 1895, fire swept over about eight acres of territory in the heart of Berlin and destroyed pretty nearly all the business houses in the place. More than sixty buildings were destroyed, and the total loss was upward of $85,000, offset by only about $20,000 insurance. The fire started in the hayloft of a livery stable at 8 o'clock P. M., and by 1 o'clock next morning the destruction was complete. Many of the residents were absent at Ocean City when the fire occurred in 1895.

Berlin also experienced a disastrous fire March 21, 1895.

Notable conflagrations in towns of Worcester county occurred as follows:

Pocomoke City, November 22, 1883, 57 houses.

Pocomoke City, July 6, 1892, 20 houses.

Snow Hill, August 7, 1893, 76 houses.

The population of Berlin by the census of 1900 was 1,246.

LONGEST STONE ARCH BRIDGE.

The arch of a bridge at Luxembourg, over the Valley of Petruffe, has a span of 277 feet and a rise of 102 feet. In comparison, the longest existing stone arch is that over Cabin John creek, in Montgomery county, Md., on the aqueduct for the supply of Potomac river water to the city of Washington, D. C. This has a span of 220 feet and a rise of 57 1/2 feet, and is 101 feet above the water level in the creek. The arch over Cabin John creek was constructed under the direction of Jefferson Davis when United States Secretary of War, in 1853-57, and his name was erased from this public work during the Civil War. The arch is an engineering triumph for the gracefulness of its lines and architectural beauty and simplicity. An arch over the River Pruth, in Austria, has a span of 213 feet and a rise of 59 feet. The bridge over the River Dee, near Chester, England, has a span of 200 feet.

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN.

On May 18, 1901, at 12h. 29m. A. M., a total eclipse of the sun occurred, visible from the southeast end of the island of Madagascar, the path of totality crossing some small islands of the Indian ocean, arriving near noon at Sumatra. The path crossed over Borneo, New Guinea and small islands of the East Indies. The eclipse was partial over Australia, the Philippine Islands, South China, Siam, India, Southeastern Africa and nearly the whole of the Indian ocean. In the duration of totality it was one of the longest eclipses for many years. Clouds, however, prevented much of the intended work of scientific observers, especially in Sumatra.

PRESIDENCY OF JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY.

February 22, 1901, Dr. Daniel C. Gilman tendered his formal resignation of the presidency of Johns Hopkins University, to take effect September 1 following, at which time he completed the seventieth year of his life. He was called to the office from California at the close of the year 1874, and devoted himself to the organization of the University, which opened in the year 1876.

Prof. Ira Remsen, the head of the chemistry department, was elected president June 3, 1901, and entered upon duty October following. He was born in New York city in 1846 and was called to the Hopkins University in 1876. He is the author of a number of works on chemistry.

POLICE APPOINTING POWER.

The General Assembly of Maryland in 1900 changed the method of appointing the three police commissioners for Baltimore city, which was, up to that time, made by the Legislature, for terms of six years, and vested the appointing power in the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The term of each commissioner was fixed at two years, beginning on the first Monday of May, 1900. The law requires that two of the commissioners shall always be adherents of the two leading political parties of the State—one from each of those parties. No restriction of this kind applies to the third member of the board. The oath of office requires that political considerations shall not influence the commissioners in appointing, promoting, reducing in rank or discharging any member of the police or detective force.

Three police examiners, also appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, for two-year terms, were authorized, the selections to be made as in the case of the commissioners, one from each of the two leading parties in the State and one without such restriction. The examiners were required to make rules for carrying the law into effect. Their duties are to ascertain the qualifications, by competitive examination, of every candidate for appointment to or promotion in the police force, except the marshal of police, captain of detectives, counsel of the board and police surgeons. They are required to make up graded lists of the candidates examined by them. These lists are reported to the commissioners, who may accept or reject any or all the nominees, from time to time, but all appointments must be made from graded lists. The examinations must be open, public and practical competitive examinations. Church and party ties are not to be regarded in the selections, "so that the police department may be entirely out of the field of political and religious differences, controversies and influences." The oath of office of the examiners is to the same effect, in this particular, as that for the commissioners.

STATE AID AND CHARITIES.

Commissioners Appointed by the Governor May 5, under Act of 1900, Chapter 679, to Serve for Two Years.

Pres.—Ferdinand C. Latrobe, Baltimore.

Elihu E. Jackson, Salisbury.

John Lee Carroll, Howard county.

Office, Room 304, Maryland Telephone Building, corner Lexington and Courtland streets, Baltimore City.

James Bond, Baltimore.

Samuel Rosenthal, Jr., Baltimore.

Secret'y—James R. Brewer, Baltimore.

It is required by the Act of 1900, creating the commission, that all contemplated applications for State aid shall be made to the board, not less than six months before the regular session of the Legislature. This must be done by all State, county, city or private incorporations, including medical, educational, reformatory, penal, military and charitable institutions or organizations.

The applications must be in writing, setting forth the amount to be applied for. The commission is required to consider whether the public interests are to be benefited by extending the aid asked, and to inquire into various details of the management, etc., of the officers of the institution to be benefited, and report to the Legislature, with recommendations in each case. Within ten days after the Legislature meets the Board shall report the names of all institutions and organizations to which, in the judgment of the board, the aid of the State should be extended, and to what extent. They will also report those, in their judgment, not entitled to receive aid, and the reasons therefor.

The sum of $5,000 was appropriated to cover all the expenses of the commission, including the salary of the clerk, $1,200; office, rent, $600, and a total of $500 in the year traveling expenses of the commission, including visits to institutions, etc. The commissioners serve without other pay.

The State Board of Health of Maryland is empowered to make sanitary investigations, especially into all local causes of disease. The board is required to take such steps through the courts as will serve to abate nuisances in any county, city, town or village of the State. Among other duties is that of organizing, as far as practicable, local sanitary and advisory boards in every city, village and legislative district. The county commissioners are local boards of health, and may, in their several counties, exercise all the powers of the State Board of Health. The law confers upon both State and local boards authority to meet epidemic emergencies, and to institute such regulations as will tend to stamp out disease promptly.

The Legislature of 1898 passed a vital statistics law, which requires all physicians, coroners, undertakers and midwives to report all births and deaths coming under their professional observation to the local health officers, who in turn must keep records and make monthly returns to the State Board of Health.

By the Act of 1900, amending the earlier law, two sub-registrars of vital statistics were authorized to be appointed for each election district in the State. By the end of the year there were 400 of these sub-registrars in office. Permits to bury the dead must be obtained from these officers. Certificate for every death must be signed by the physician in attendance, or health officer or coroner where there is no medical attendance, or in cases of sudden or violent death. In all cases of death from small-pox, yellow fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever or other contagious or infectious disease dangerous to public health, the certificate of death shall be forwarded immediately.

The attending physician must in every case of death occurring in his practice make out a certificate of death on a blank supplied for that purpose. The undertaker cannot bury a dead body until he has obtained a physician's certificate and presented it to a local sub-registrar, who, if he is satisfied that the physician's return is correct, will issue to the undertaker a permit to bury the body. There is a heavy penalty upon both physicians and undertakers for failure to comply with the law.

During July and August it is unlawful to disinter a human body, except on order of a court for purpose of a legal investigation. Permits for disinterments may be had from local boards.

EXTRA SESSION MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

Governor John Walter Smith, in his proclamation of February 13, 1901, calling the General Assembly of Maryland to meet in special session in Annapolis March 6, 1901, set forth among the principal reasons for the call:

That errors in the enumeration by the United States census of the population of this State, if not corrected by an enumeration under State authority, would give to some sections of the State a disproportionate representation in the House of Delegates.

That there was urgent need for legislation to reform "manifest and great abuses in the election law of this State."

That there was a demand from the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore for additional power in connection with sewerage of the city, and the preservation of its sanitary condition.

The program as to these three measures was carried out, the sewer bill being only slightly changed from the original draft.

The State enumeration of population was done under the direction of Buchanan Schley, superintendent of census, and William J. Ogden, assistant superintendent. The figures were reported to the Governor, who made the result known by proclamation issued July 23, 1901, and reapportioned the representation in the House of Delegates.

Other acts passed by the Legislature at the extra session and approved by the Governor included the following:

Renumbering the wards of the city of Baltimore.

Regulating elections in Frederick City.

Authorizing election supervisors to subdivide election precincts.

Ceding a tract of land in Montgomery county to the United States.

Appropriating $25,000 for State representation at the Buffalo and Charleston Expositions.

The Legislature adjourned March 28, after passing 19 acts.

BALLOT LAW OF MARYLAND.

The General Assembly of Maryland, in extra session, by Chapter 2 of the Acts of 1901 adopted the Massachusetts form of the Australian ballot in this State. The act was approved March 21, 1901.

The ballot is made absolutely secret. Party emblems are abolished.

The voter must be able to make intelligent selection. He must make an X mark within the designated space for each candidate for whom he may desire to cast his vote.

The names of candidates for every office to be filled shall, except in the case of candidates for presidential electors, be arranged alphabetically, according to surname, under the designation of the office.

The party designation of each candidate shall follow his name.

To the name of each candidate for State office or for Congress shall be added the name of the county or city in which he resides.

The names of all candidates must be printed on the ballot of uniform size.

Assistance from clerks in marking the ballots of illiterate voters is abolished.

The blind, or those physically incapable and making oath to the condition, shall be aided by both clerks.

Qualified voters may decline to place their signatures on the registration books.

A ballot is entirely invalidated if, under the designation of any office, the voter has marked more names than there are persons to be elected for that office. It is also invalidated if there is a mark of any kind on the ballot other than the cross marks called for by the law.

Any voter who shall allow his ballot to be seen by any person with the apparent intent of letting it be known how he is about to vote, or place any distinguishing mark upon his ballot, or who shall make a false statement as to his inability to mark his ballot, or who shall interfere or attempt to interfere with any voter when inside the enclosed space in the polling room, or when marking his ballot, or who shall endeavor to induce any voter before voting to show how he marks, or has marked, his ballot, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five ($5) dollars nor more than one hundred ($100) dollars, or by imprisonment in jail for a period not exceeding sixty days, or by both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

Persons who have taken up a residence outside of the State will be "conclusively presumed to have thereby intended to abandon their legal residence in this State and to have surrendered their right to registration as legal voters in this State," unless within thirty days after the passage of the new law they make affidavit that they did not so intend, and that they do intend to resume actual residence in Maryland six months before the next general election. All persons taking up a residence outside the State will forfeit the right of registration, unless within ten days of the time of such removal they make a similar affidavit. Failure to resume actual residence in the State six months before the election will disqualify the person from voting.

BASIS OF REPRESENTATION MARYLAND HOUSE OF DELEGATES.

Under a State census of 1901, Governor John Walter Smith, by proclamation of July 23, 1901, apportioned the representation in the House of Delegates as follows:

Allegany,	5	Garrett,	2
Anne Arundel,	4	Harford,	4
Baltimore city,		Howard,	2
1st Leg. Dist.,	6	Kent,	2
2d Leg. Dist.,	6	Montgomery,	4
3d Leg. Dist.,	6	Prince George's,	4
Baltimore co.,	6	Queen Anne's,	3
Calvert,	2	Somerset,	3
Caroline,	2	St. Mary's,	2
Carroll,	4	Talbot,	3
Cecil,	3	Washington,	5
Charles,	2	Wicomico,	3
Dorchester,	4	Worcester,	3
Frederick,	5	Total,	95

By the Constitution of the State of Maryland, Article 3, Section 5, it is made the duty of the Governor, "immediately after the taking and publishing of the next national census, or after any State enumeration of population," to arrange the representatives in the House of Delegates of the State in accordance with a basis of apportionment laid down in Section 4 of Article 3 of the Constitution. This basis is as follows:

Every county having 18,000 population or less, 2 Delegates.

Every county having over 18,000 and less than 28,000, 3 Delegates.

28,000 and less than 40,000, 4 Delegates.

40,000 and less than 55,000, 5 Delegates.

55,000 and upwards, 6 Delegates.

Each of the three legislative districts of Baltimore, as many Delegates as the largest county. No county can have more than 6 Delegates.

Under the national census of 1890, the total membership of the House of Delegates was 91. The State census of 1901 gave one additional Delegate to each of the counties, Dorchester, Montgomery, Prince George's and Washington, thus increasing the total to 95.

The Federal census of 1900, as at first announced, provided a basis upon which the apportionment would have made a total of 98 members, seven counties gaining one member each, viz.:

Anne Arundel,	Charles,
Kent,	Montgomery,
Prince George's,	St. Mary's.
Washington,

The figures of this census were revised for particular counties. Under the revision Anne Arundel, Charles and St. Mary's failed to show a basis for increased representation. On the other hand, Kent, Montgomery, Washington and Prince George's gained one each.

The difference between the revised National census and the State census is that on the Federal basis Kent was entitled to an additional Delegate; on the State basis Kent was not entitled to the increase, but Dorchester was.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Three amendments to the Constitution of Maryland were submitted to the voters of the State and ratified at the general election, November 5, 1901, to the following effect:

I. Amending Section 9 of Article 5.—Providing that the General Assembly may hereafter prescribe by law such fees and commissions, or salary, not exceeding $3,000, for the State's Attorney of any county. Fixing the salary of the State's Attorney for Baltimore city at $4,500 a year, with power to appoint one deputy at $3,000 a year and such other assistants at not exceeding $1,500 a year as the Supreme Bench of Baltimore city may approve, all of such salaries to be paid out of the fees of the State's Attorney's office.

II. Amending Section 4 of Article 3.—Increasing the representation of the city of Baltimore in the House of Delegates from 18 to 24, by allowing to each of the four legislative districts so created representation equal to that enjoyed by the largest county, which is 6 Delegates.

III. Amending Section 2 of Article 3.—Dividing the city of Baltimore into four legislative districts of as nearly equal proportions as may be, and of contiguous territory, and giving the city one Senator from each of the districts, making four instead of three Senators, as heretofore.

The effect of the amendments numbered II and III is simply to provide for Baltimore city one additional legislative district, one more Senator and six more Delegates in the General Assembly, making the number of city Senators 4 and Delegates 24.

The Negro Element.

In South Carolina and Mississippi the negro element predominates. In South Carolina in 1900 there were 782,321 persons of negro descent and 557,807 white persons; in Mississippi, 907,630 negroes and 641,200 whites. The negro element comprised 58.4 per cent. of the entire population of South Carolina, against 59.9 per cent. ten years before; in Mississippi the percentage was 58.5, as against 57.6 in 1890. Ten years ago the negroes were in a majority in Louisiana; now they number 650,804, against 729,612 white persons. The white persons now constitute 52.8 per cent. of the whole population, as against 49.9 per cent. in 1890.

CUMBERLAND CITY ELECTION.

An election, May 20, 1901, in Cumberland for City Councilmen resulted as follows:

WARD 1.		WARD 4.
Frank X. Millman, D.,	227	James M. Oliver, D.,	146
Thos. H. Hobbs, R.,	170	Theo. A. K. Hummelshime, R.,	230
WARD 2.		WARD 5.
Edwin F. Rizer, D.,	287	Lucian D. Sizer, D.,	113
William P. Rizer, R.,	251	John J. Stump, R.,	280
WARD 3.		WARD 6.
Charles H. Smith, D.,	307	John Craddock, D.,	251
Wright Butler, R.,	115	William Cornwell, R.,	179

At this election the conditional proposition of Mr. Andrew Carnegie to give $25,000 for a public library building, providing the city of Cumberland would maintain it at a cost of $2,500, and for which a committee of public-spirited citizens offered to donate a site at a cost of $3,500, was defeated by an almost two-to-one vote, while many of the voters undecided refused to vote on this question at all. Those who were opposed to the proposition are not opposed to a public library, but they believed the city needed other public improvements not only more, but they objected to the conditions made by Mr. Carnegie. The vote on the proposition was as follows:

	For.	Against.
First,	139	245
Second,	113	377
Third,	76	303
Fourth,	114	232
Fifth,	113	237
Sixth,	73	311

WIRELESS MESSAGES OVER THE ATLANTIC.

Towards the close of the year 1901 Signor Marconi announced, December 14, that he had succeeded in transmitting wireless messages across the Atlantic ocean, from the coast of Cornwall, England, to St. Johns, New Foundland, a distance of 1,700 miles. He had previously established a station at Poldhu, in England, and provided for sending the messages between certain hours during the week beginning Monday, December 9. His receiving station was on Signal Hill, at the entrance of the harbor of St. Johns. The signals consisted of repeating the letter "S," which in Marconi's code is made by three dots or quick strokes. This signal was repeated, and received so frequently, and in accordance with the plans arranged to provide against the possibility of mistake, that the experiments were considered genuine transmissions from England to America. Though himself fully satisfied that he had succeeded in establishing communication across the Atlantic without the use of wires, he could not but admit that the system was at that stage of the experiments only in its embryotic stage. But the fact remains that the achievement was accomplished as surely as that of the transmission of the first message under the ocean by the first cable before it relapsed into its long silence.

Guglielmo Marconi was born in Bologna, Italy, his mother being an English woman and his father an Italian.

He is hardly 30 years of age. He is, and professes to be, an amateur electrician, and has to date devoted some seven years to the particular subject of "wireless" telegraphy. In doing so he turned to account the discovery of the existence of peculiar electrical radiations made sometime previously by the German physicist Heinrich Hertz and others. He devised practical apparatus to give commercial results. It was in England that he first obtained appreciation and capital to help him on his invention, and messages were sent first from the English shore to lighthouses and ships off the coast. Next they were sent longer distances, across the channel to France, and during the British naval maneuvers the Marconi system was used to enable ships to communicate with each other, and with the shore over distances ranging from 60 to 160 miles. All British warships are now being equipped with the Marconi apparatus, and Lloyds recently contracted for the installation of the apparatus on their vessels, thus recognizing the commercial utility of the system. Since Marconi's invention became known, experimenters in the United States, France, England and Germany have professed to have discovered new systems of their own, as good as Marconi's, but they have not attained a like practical success. Signaling across the Atlantic is a new departure, or, rather a sensational expansion of the Marconi system.

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

The Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, N. Y., which closed November 1, 1901, resulted in a final net loss to the exposition company of $3,326,000. The total amount expended by the exposition company was $8,860,757, and the receipts from admissions after May 1 were only $2,467,066. Receipts from concessions were $3,011,522, but nearly all the concessionaires lost money.

Maryland Day at the Exposition was July 10, when the Governor of the State, Hon. John Walter Smith, was present with his staff. The Governor and the chairman of the Maryland commission, Hon. Ferdinand C. Latrobe, made addresses. Mrs. Martha Ford Gresham recited the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Maryland was the only State of the Union awarded a gold medal for a distinctively State exhibit. This was for geological specimens, mineral products, etc., showing the resources of the State, collected and displayed by William Bullock Clark, State geologist, under the direction of the Maryland commission.

There were 139 groups of exhibits, embracing 580 classes. The juries reported upon some 7,000 exhibits. The awards were:

Gold medals,	887
Silver medals,	1,159
Bronze medals,	1,147
Honorable mention,	1,384.

Gold medals were awarded to countries as follows:

United States,	601

THE JUDICIARY SYSTEM.

The judges of the courts in Maryland, except the Orphans' Court, are elected for 15 years. They are required to be not less than 30 years of age at the time of election, and are re-eligible until the age of 70 years, but not thereafter, though the Legislature, by joint resolution, may enable any judge already in office to fill out an unexpired term beyond the limit. The counties are grouped into seven circuits, and the city of Baltimore is designated as the eighth circuit. A chief judge and two associate judges are provided for each circuit in the counties. The chief judges of the county circuits and a judge specially elected in Baltimore city constitute the Court of Appeals. The Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, designates the member of the Court of Appeals who shall be the chief or presiding judge of that tribunal. A court is required to be held in each county of the State, to be styled the Circuit Court for the county in which it may be held. No two of the associate judges shall reside in the same county. Baltimore city, the eighth judicial circuit, is provided with a Supreme Bench—a chief and eight associate judges, in addition to one associate judge of the Court of Appeals. The total number of judges is 31.

The salaries of judges are as follows: Court of Appeals, $4,500; Associate of the Circuit Courts, $3,600; Supreme Bench, Baltimore city, $5,000, of which $4,500 is paid by the State and $500 by the city of Baltimore.

ALABAMA TORNADO.

A tornado swept over Birmingham, Ala., and vicinity, March 25, 1901, killing about 25 persons, and, it is feared, many more in the outlying country. Half a hundred persons were badly hurt and some of these will probably die. The property loss is estimated to be over a quarter of a million dollars. The force of the tornado was such that houses, trees and stones were torn up from the ground and carried some distance. The storm came without warning and had passed almost before its presence was realized. A negro was caught stealing from the wreck of a Birmingham building and was killed by onlookers.

METHOD OF APPOINTING SUPERVISORS.

Three supervisors of elections are appointed for each county of Maryland and for the city of Baltimore every two years, by the Governor, "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate," if in session, and if not in session then by the Governor alone.

Four names are required to be submitted to the Executive for each county and the city of Baltimore, by the State Central Committees representing each of the two leading political parties of the State, from each of which lists the Governor will select one person to be a supervisor for each party. In case all of the four persons first named by a party committee are deemed "unfit" by the Governor or "incompetent" for the position, he is empowered to file a written statement to that effect with the Secretary of State, and then call upon the committee for another list of six names. From these and the original list he shall make the appointment. The third supervisor he selects without restriction, except as to locality.

The pay of supervisors in Baltimore city is $1,500 a year for each, and in the counties from $100 to $150 a year. Each board of supervisors in the counties may have clerks, with the consent of the County Commissioners, who fix the pay. In Baltimore city a clerk at a salary of $2,000 a year and a messenger at $800 a year are authorized, with such other temporary assistance as the supervisors may consider necessary from time to time, within the limit of $2,000 a year. The supervisors' office is in the Courthouse.

BALTIMORE SCHOOL SYSTEM.

The School Commissioners of Baltimore City are appointed by the Mayor. The present board entered on duty March 1, 1900. The Mayor designates the president of the School Board. The term of the commissioners is six years, and three of the nine will retire at the end of every two years. Three members of the first board appointed will retire in two and four years, as decided among them by lot.

The Board of School Commissioners appoints the city superintendent of public instruction and assistant superintendents; also, one or more visitors to each school, the visitors to serve without pay.

The school teachers are selected by the superintendent and his assistants, in accordance with the merit system and subject to confirmation by the School Board. The commissioners appoint the faculty of the City College and the teachers of the Polytechnic Institute and the high schools, as well as various subordinate officers in the department.

Church and party ties shall not be regarded by the Mayor in making his selections, the intention being to keep the public schools entirely out of the field of political and religious differences. Ward lines are also abolished in making selections.

DANISH WEST INDIA ISLANDS.

In December, 1901, reports from Copenhagen, confirmed at Washington, indicated that a preliminary agreement had been reached between Denmark and the United States for the sale to the United States of the islands of St. Thomas and St. John, in the Danish West Indies, for $4,500,000. Santa Cruz, the largest of the group, it was stated, would remain under the Danish flag.

The islands are between 30 and 40 miles east of Porto Rico. The population of St. Thomas is 12,000 and of St. John less than 1,000. The area of the two islands are 23 and 21 square miles, respectively.

The population of St. Thomas is mainly in the town of Charlotte Amelle, which is a free port, and this harbor is the only feature which makes the island of much value. The soil is mostly unproductive and but little cultivated. The best-known product of the island is St. Thomas bay rum, the ingredients of which are largely obtained in Porto Rico. Cattle are also raised.

Cruz Bay is the chief town on the island of St. John, which is northeast of St. Thomas. The industries of St. John are much like those of the latter island. The population of the entire group is chiefly negro.

Santa Cruz, or St. Croix, has an area of 110 square miles. Two-fifths of the land is in sugar plantations, but cotton, coffee, indigo and cattle are also raised. The chief town of the island is Christiansted. The population of Santa Cruz is 18,000.

Negotiations for the purchase of the islands of St. Thomas and St. John were begun by President Lincoln, in January, 1865. Later, under the administration of President Johnson, the negotiations were renewed, and Denmark ratified a treaty for the purchase of St. Thomas and St. John for $7,500,000. The United States Senate rejected the treaty.

At the close of the year 1901 the possessions of the United States outside of the continent of North America were in square miles as follows:

Philippines.....	143,000
Porto Rico.....	3,600
Hawaii.....	6,740
Tutula.....	500
Guam.....	170

Total..... 154,010

Danish West Indies would add:

St. Thomas.....	23
St. John.....	21

Total, with additions..... 154,054

Cuba, under the military control of the United States, has an area of 41,655 square miles. If this is added to the other United States possessions and the Danish islands of St. Thomas and St. John, the grand total is 195,714 square miles.

The area of the United States possessions on the continent of North America is 3,602,990 square miles, including Alaska.

GAME WARDEN'S DUTIES.

The game warden of Maryland is appointed by the Governor for two years, with salary from the State of $500 a year, together with a portion of the fines imposed by due process of law upon violators. The present game warden is John W. Avirett, of Cumberland. Robt. H. Gilbert, of Baltimore, is the first assistant game warden. Deputy game wardens are appointed for the counties of Maryland and the city of Baltimore. When on duty they are required to wear a badge. They are empowered to seize game and fish unlawfully in the possession of anyone.

ISTHMUS OF PANAMA CANAL TREATY.

Ratified by the United States Senate December 17, 1901, by a vote of 72 to 6.

The United States of America and his Majesty Edward VII of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, and Emperor of India, being desirous to facilitate the construction of a ship canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans by whatever route may be considered expedient, and to that end to remove any objection which may arise out of the convention of the 19th of April, 1850, commonly called the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, to the construction of such canal under the auspices of the Government of the United States without impairing the general principle of neutralization established in Article 8 of that convention, have for that purpose appointed as their plenipotentiaries:

The President of the United States, John Hay, Secretary of State of the United States of America, and his Majesty Edward VII of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, and Emperor of India, the Right Hon. Lord Pauncefoot, G. C. B., G. C. M. G., his Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the United States, who, having communicated to each other their full powers, which were found to be in due and proper form, have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The high contracting parties agree that the present treaty shall supersede the aforementioned convention of the 19th of April, 1850.

ARTICLE II.

It is agreed that the canal may be constructed under the auspices of the Government of the United States, either directly at its own cost or by gift or loan of money to individuals or corporations, or through subscription to or purchase of stock or shares, and that, subject to the provisions of the present treaty, the said Government shall have and enjoy all the rights incident to such construction, as well as the exclusive right of providing for the regulation and management of the canal.

ARTICLE III.

The United States adopts as the basis of the neutralization of such ship canal the following rules, substantially as embodied in the convention of Constantinople, signed the 28th of October, 1888, for the free navigation of the Suez canal; that is to say:

1. The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation or its citizens or subjects in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic or otherwise. Such condition and charges of traffic shall be just and equitable.

2. The canal shall never be blockaded, nor shall any right of way be exercised nor any act of hostility be committed within it. The United States, however, shall be at liberty to maintain such military police along the canal as may be necessary to protect it against lawlessness and disorder.

Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not revictual nor take any stores in the canal except so far as may be strictly necessary, and the transit of such vessel through the canal shall be effected with the least possible delay in accordance with the regulations in force, and with only such intermission as may result from the necessities of the service.

Prizes shall be in all respects subject to the same rules as vessels of war of the belligerents.

No belligerent shall embark or disembark troops, munitions of war or warlike materials in the canal except in case of accidental hindrance of the transit, and in such case the transit shall be resumed with all possible dispatch.

The provisions of this article shall apply to waters adjacent to the canal, within three marine miles of either end. Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not remain in such waters longer than 24 hours at any one time except in case of distress, and in such case shall depart as soon as possible. But a vessel of war of one belligerent shall not depart within 24 hours from the departure of a vessel of war of the other belligerent.

The plant, establishments, buildings and all works necessary to the construction, maintenance and operation of the canal shall be deemed to be parts thereof for the purpose of this treaty, and in time of war, as in time of peace, shall enjoy complete immunity from attack or injury by belligerents, and from acts calculated to impair their usefulness as parts of the canal.

ARTICLE IV.

It is agreed that no change of territorial sovereignty or of international relations of the country or countries traversed by the before-mentioned canal shall affect the general principle of neutralization or the obligation of the high contracting parties under the present treaty.

ARTICLE V.

The present treaty shall be ratified by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, and by his Britan nic Majesty, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington or at London at the earliest possible time within six months from the date hereof.

In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed this treaty and hereunto affixed their seals.

COURT OF CLAIMS.

Washington, D. C.

Chief Justice, Charles C. Nott.
Judges, Lawrence Weldon, John Davis.

Judges, Stanton J. Peelle.
Charles R. Howry.
Chief Clerk, Archibald Hopkins.

This court has jurisdiction of all claims founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, except for pensions, or upon any regulation of an executive department or contract with the Government, and other matters specified in 10 Stat., L. 612.

SCHLEY COURT OF INQUIRY.

A Court of Inquiry, ordered by the Secretary of the Navy at the request of Rear-Admiral Winfield S. Schley, to investigate his conduct during the war with Spain, in 1898, met at the navy-yard, Washington, D. C., September 12, 1901. The public sessions, the taking of testimony and the argument of counsel came to an end November 7.

The court as finally designated was composed as follows:

Admiral George Dewey, president.
Rear-Admiral Francis M. Ramsay.
Rear-Admiral Andrew E. K. Benham.
Capt. Samuel C. Lemly, judge-advocate.

Counsel for Rear-Admiral Schley:

Hon. Isidor Rayner, Attorney-General of Maryland.

Hon. Jeremiah M. Wilson, Washington, D. C.

Capt. James Parker, New Jersey.

Rear-Admiral Lewis A. Kilmington was originally designated for a place on the court, but was excused on account of ill-health.

Then Rear-Admiral Henry L. Howison was selected.

Rear-Admiral Howison was challenged the day the court met. Rear-Admiral Francis M. Ramsay was appointed in his place.

Mr. Wilson, of Admiral Schley's counsel, died September 24, while engaged in the defense.

Rear-Admiral Schley reached the age of retirement, 60 years, before the case was concluded. He was moved to ask for the Court of Inquiry by allegations affecting his conduct as an officer. These charges found place in Edgar S. Mclay's Naval History of the United States, in which Admiral Schley was called a "caltiff" and a "coward."

The findings of the court, three separate papers, one embodying a "statement of facts," all signed by Admiral Dewey as president and Judge-Advocate Lemly, were made public December 13. The majority opinion and Admiral Dewey's dissenting opinion are as follows:

Opinion of the Majority.

Commodore Schley, in command of Flying Squadron, should have proceeded with utmost dispatch off Cienfuegos and should have maintained a close blockade of that port.

He should have endeavored on May 23 at Cienfuegos to obtain information regarding the Spanish squadron by communicating with the insurgents at the place designated in the memorandum delivered to him at 8.15 A. M. of that date.

He should have proceeded from Cienfuegos to Santiago de Cuba with all dispatch, and should have disposed his vessels with a view of intercepting the enemy in any attempt to pass the Flying Squadron.

He should not have delayed the squadron for the Eagle.

He should not have made the retrograde turn westward with his squadron.

He should have promptly obeyed the Navy Department's order of May 25.

He should have endeavored to capture or destroy the Spanish vessels at anchor near the entrance of Santiago harbor on May 29 and 30.

He did not do his utmost with the force under his command to capture or destroy the Colon and other vessels of the enemy which he attacked on May 31.

By commencing the engagement on July 3 with the port battery and turning the Brooklyn around with port helm Commodore Schley caused her to lose distance and position with the Spanish vessels, especially with the Vizcaya and Colon.

The turn of the Brooklyn to starboard was made to avoid getting her into dangerous proximity to the Spanish vessels. The turn was made toward the Texas and caused that vessel to stop and to back her engines to avoid possible collision.

Admiral Schley did injustice to Lieutenant Commander A. C. Hodgson in publishing only a portion of the correspondence which passed between them.

Commodore Schley's conduct in connection with the events of the Santiago campaign prior to June 1, 1898, was characterized by vacillation, dilatoriness and lack of enterprise.

His official reports regarding the coal supply and the coaling facilities of the Flying Squadron were inaccurate and misleading.

His conduct during the battle of July 3 was self-possessed, and he encouraged in his own person his subordinate officers and men to fight courageously.

GEORGE DEWEY,
Admiral United States Navy, President.
SAMUEL C. LEMLY,
Judge-Advocate-General United States Navy, Judge-Advocate.

The Recommendation.

The recommendation of the court, formally signed by Admiral Dewey as president and the Judge-Advocate, was as follows:

"In view of the length of time which has elapsed since the occurrence of the events of the Santiago campaign, the court recommends no further proceeding be had in the premises."

SCHLEY COURT OF INQUIRY—Continued.

Admiral Dewey's Opinion.

In the opinion of the undersigned, the passage from Key West to Cienfuegos was made by the Flying Squadron with all possible dispatch, Commodore Schley having in view the importance of arriving off Cienfuegos with as much coal as possible in the ship's bunkers.

The blockade of Cienfuegos was effective.

Commodore Schley in permitting the steamer Adula to enter the port of Cienfuegos expected to obtain information concerning the Spanish squadron from her when she came out.

The passage from Cienfuegos to a point about 22 miles south of Santiago was made with as much dispatch as was possible, while keeping the squadron a unit.

The blockade of Santiago was effective.

Commodore Schley was the senior officer of our squadron off Santiago when the Spanish squadron attempted to escape on the morning of July 3, 1898. He was in absolute command, and is entitled to the credit due to such commanding officer for the glorious victory which resulted in the total destruction of the Spanish ships.

GEORGE DEWEY,

Admiral United States Navy.

SAM. C. LEMLY,

Judge-Advocate-General United States Navy, Judge-Advocate.

Approved by Secretary Long.

On December 21 the Secretary of the Navy approved the majority report and dissolved the Court of Inquiry. The decision was as follows:

The Department has read the testimony in this case, the arguments of counsel at the trial; the court's findings of fact, opinion, and recommendation; the individual memorandum of the presiding member; the statement of exceptions to the said findings and opinion by the applicant; the reply to said statement by the Judge-Advocate of the court and his assistant, and the brief this day submitted by counsel for Rear-Admiral Sampson traversing the presiding member's views as to who was in command at the battle of Santiago.

And, after careful consideration, the findings of fact and the opinion of the full court are approved.

As to the points on which the presiding member differs from the opinion of the majority of the court, the opinion of the majority is approved.

As to the further expression of his views by the same member with regard to the questions of command on the morning of July 3, 1898, and of the title to credit for the ensuing victory, the conduct of the court in making no finding and rendering no opinion on those questions is approved. Indeed, it could with propriety take no other course, evidence on these questions during the inquiry having been excluded by the court.

The Department approves the recommendation of the court that no further proceedings be had in the premises.

The Department records its appreciation of the arduous labors of the whole court.

JOHN D. LONG,
Secretary of the Navy.

LIEUT.-GEN. MILES CENSURED.

Simultaneous with the action of the Secretary of the Navy approving the findings of the Naval Court of Inquiry, a reprimand of Lieut.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, commanding the Army of the United States, was delivered by the Secretary of War for criticism of the Schley verdict. Hon. Elihu Root, the Secretary of War, in a letter dated December 19 asked General Miles whether his observations upon the actions of a co-ordinate branch of the service in a matter pending in the Navy Department were made as reported, and, if so, to explain the same.

The observations made by General Miles were in a published interview, in which he said:

"I think Dewey has summed up the matter in a clear and concise manner, and I believe his conclusions will be indorsed by the patriotic people of the United States. I have no sympathy with the efforts which have been made to destroy the honor of an officer under such circumstances."

General Miles wrote two notes to the Secretary of War in reply. In the first, dated December 20, he said:

"My observations, as substantially reported, had no reference to the action, pending or otherwise, of a co-ordinate branch of the service. They were merely my personal views, based upon matters set forth in various publications, which had been given to the world, and concerning which I conceive there was no impropriety in expressing an opinion the same as any other citizen upon a matter of such public interest. My observations were in no sense intended as a criticism of any action taken by a co-ordinate branch of the service, and the statement that I had no sympathy with any efforts tending to disparage a distinguished and gallant officer likewise had no such reference."

In the second note, dated December 21, General Miles wrote: "In order that there may be no misunderstanding, I desire to say that for several years a distinguished and gallant officer has been assailed by parties who have endeavored to write him and other high officials down, until finally he appealed against such assaults to a co-ordinate branch of the Government. That co-ordinate branch of the Government granted him a court of inquiry, and, as I understand it, they unanimously exonerated him from such epithets as 'coward,' 'poltroon,' etc., and their opinions were given to the public for the information of all citizens.

"When I said that I had no sympathy with those who had endeavored to destroy the reputation of a high officer who, like all other officers, regards his honor more sacred than life, I had in mind and referred to those assaults against which the Admiral had appealed for protection and justification, and certainly not to a co-ordinate branch of the Government.

"I request that this note be laid before the President, and have no objection to it being made public."

Secretary Root communicated his reply to General Miles, December 21, "by direction of the President," saying:

"Your explanation of the public statement made by you is not satisfactory. You are in error if you suppose that you have the same right as any other citizen to express publicly an opinion regarding official questions pending in the course of military discipline. The established and invariable rules of official propriety necessary to the effective discipline of the service impose limitations upon the public expressions of military officers with which your long experience should have made you familiar.

"Your duty is to express your opinion on official matters when called upon by your official superiors, or in the due course of your official reports and recommendations, and not otherwise. The first article of the regulations governing the Army of the United States provides:

"Deliberations or discussions among military men conveying praise or censure or any mark of approbation toward others in the military service * * * are prohibited."

"This provision has been a part of the Army regulations for at least half a century, and the highest obligation to observe it rests, upon the officers whose high rank should make them examples to their subordinates. Any other rule of action in the military service would be subversive of discipline. It would not be tolerated in a subaltern, and it will not be tolerated in any officer of whatever rank.

"The present facts are that for several years there had been an unfortunate and bitter controversy in the Navy Department—a controversy generally deplored, even by the participants, as tending to bring the service into disesteem at home and abroad, and to destroy those relations of mutual confidence and friendship between, naval officers which the interests of effective service require. In this controversy the Army had not been involved and no bar had been raised to that good feeling and friendly relation between all the officers of the Navy and all the officers of the Army which is essential to the successful and harmonious co-operation of the two services in preparation and in action. A Court of Inquiry had been held on the matters in controversy and a report had been made in which one member of the court had dissented in some particulars from the majority, and the report was pending before the reviewing authority. At this point you, the Lieutenant-General of the Army, saw fit to make a public expression of your opinion as between the majority and minority of the court, accompanied by a criticism of the most severe character, which could not fail to be applied by the generality of readers to the naval officers against whose view your opinion was expressed.

"It is of no consequence on whose side your opinion was or what it was. You had no business in the controversy, and no right, holding the office which you do, to express any opinion. Your conduct was in violation of the regulation above cited and of the rules of official propriety, and you are justly liable to censure, which I now express.

"P. S.—Your second letter of explanation, dated today and received since the above was written, does not change the case. The necessity for repeated explanations but illustrates the importance of the rule which you have violated."

Edgar Stanton Maclay, the author of the history of the Navy in which Rear-Admiral Schley was criticised, was asked for his resignation as a laborer in the New York navy-yard and removed

ARMY REORGANIZATION.

Under the Army Reorganization Act of Congress, approved February 2, 1901, the regular Army of the United States is constituted as follows: Cavalry, 15 regiments; artillery, 1 corps; infantry, 30 regiments. The artillery corps comprises two branches—coast artillery and field artillery—the coast artillery to have 126 batteries and the field artillery 30 batteries; the whole number of enlisted men not to exceed 18,920, exclusive of electrician sergeants. The maximum strength of the Regular Army is limited to 100,000 enlisted men. The regimental organization for the artillery arm was abandoned. The cavalry and infantry regiments are on the basis of a three-battalion organization. The chief of the artillery corps is to serve on the staff of the Lieutenant-General commanding at Headquarters.

UNITED STATES ARMY CADETS.

Each congressional district and Territory, also the District of Columbia, is entitled to have one cadet at the academy. Each State is entitled to have two cadets from the State at large, and thirty are appointed from the United States at large. The appointment from a congressional district is made upon the recommendation of the Congressman from that district, and those from a State at large upon the recommendations of the Senators of the State. Similarly, the appointment from a Territory is made upon the recommendation of the Delegate in Congress. Each person appointed must be an actual resident of the State, district or Territory from which the appointment is made.

The appointments from the United States at large and from the District of Columbia are made by the President of the United States upon his own selection.

Applications may be made at any time, by letter, to the Adjutant-General, United States Army, Washington, D. C., to have the name of the applicant placed upon the register, that it may be furnished to the proper Senator, Representative or Delegate when a vacancy occurs. The application must exhibit the full name, date of birth, and permanent abode of the applicant, with the number of the congressional district in which his residence is situated.

Appointments are required by law to be made one year in advance of the date of admission.

For each candidate appointed there may be nominated two alternates. Each of the alternates will receive from the War Department a letter of appointment.

Candidates will be examined mentally and physically before boards of Army officers, at such places as the War Department may designate, on May 1. Those who pass successfully will report to the superintendent at West Point June 15 the same year. The mental examination will be in reading, writing, spelling, English grammar, English composition, English literature, arithmetic, algebra through quadratic equations, plane geometry, descriptive geography, and the elements of physical geography, especially the geography of the United States, United States history, the outlines of general history, and the general principles of physiology and hygiene.

The academic board will consider and may accept properly attested certificates of competitive examinations, or certificates from public high schools, colleges or universities.

The pay of a cadet is $540 per year, to commence with his admission to the academy. No cadet is permitted to receive money, or any other supplies, from his parents, or from any person whomsoever, without the sanction of the superintendent.

A deposit of $100 must be made, on entrance, to cover the cost of outfit for uniform. Each cadet must be provided with specified clothing, toilet articles, blankets, etc. He must not be under 17 nor over 21 years of age, and sound physically and mentally.

Total.....	3,278	81,235	84,513

In this table are included 4,336 men of the Hospital Corps and 25 officers and 815 men of the Porto Rico Provisional Regiment, leaving the strength of the Regular Army 3,253 officers and 76,084 enlisted men.

In addition, there are also in the Philippines 172 volunteer surgeons, appointed under section 18 of the Act of February 2, 1901, and 73 officers and 4,973 native scouts.

FOREIGN BORN POPULATION.

In Massachusetts, in 1900, foreign white persons constituted 29.9 per cent., and native white persons of foreign parentage 32 per cent. of the population. These two elements represent nearly two-thirds of the total population of the State. The same elements of the white population constituted more than one-fourth of the total population of Maine in 1900, nearly one-fourth of that of Maryland, a little more than one-tenth of that of Louisiana, and about one-twelfth of that of Kentucky, as estimated by the Federal Census Bureau.

UNITED STATES NAVAL CADETS.

All mental examinations of candidates for admission into the United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis, Md., as cadets, will be held at various points throughout the United States, under the supervision of the United States Civil Service Commission. No more examinations for the admission of candidates will be held at the Naval Academy, except the physical examinations.

The first examination will be held on the third Tuesday in April, the second examination on August 11, of each year, at points designated by the Commission, nearest the homes of the candidates.

A third examination will be held at Washington, D. C., only, on September 15 in each year, for the accommodation of all candidates who have, for any reasons, been unable to report for either of the other two examinations.

Should August 11 or September 15 fall on Sunday, the examinations will be held the following Monday.

The Civil Service Commission only conducts the examination of candidates whose names have been furnished by the Navy Department. It is requested that all correspondence relative to the nomination and examination of candidates be addressed to the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department.

Members and Delegates in Congress having the appointment of a naval cadet to make are authorized to nominate one principal and five alternates. The alternates are to be numbered from one to five and appointment made in the same order, i. e., if the principal passes, he is to be appointed; but if the principal should fail and the first alternate qualify, the first alternate is to be appointed. In case the principal and the first alternate should fail, and the second alternate qualify, the second alternate is to be appointed, and so on down the list, in regular numerical order, until the fifth alternate is reached and included.

The appointment of one naval cadet is allowed each Member or Delegate of the House of Representatives, one for the District of Columbia and ten at large.

The course of naval cadets is six years, four at the Naval Academy and two at sea.

Those having the appointment will be notified by the Secretary of the Navy whenever vacancies may occur.

The pay of a naval cadet is $500 a year, commencing from the date of admission. The expenses attending equipment at entrance are $225.96. A preliminary deposit of $20 is required on entering the Academy.

UNITED STATES NAVAL APPRENTICES.

Boys between the ages of 15 and 17 years may, with the consent of their parents or guardians, be enlisted to serve in the Navy until they shall arrive at the age of 21 years.

Boys enlisted for the naval service must be of robust frame, intelligent, of perfectly sound and healthy constitution, and free from physical defects.

Physical examinations will be made by the medical officer of the ship upon which a boy presents himself for enlistment.

Boys must have the following heights and measurements:

Age.	Height.	Weight.	Chest.
15 years,	4 ft. 11 in.	80 lbs.	27 inches
16 years,	5 ft. 1 in.	90 lbs.	28 inches

They must be able to read and write.

In special cases, where a boy shows general intelligence and is otherwise qualified, he may be enlisted, notwithstanding his reading and writing are imperfect.

Each boy presenting himself for enlistment must be accompanied by his father, or by his mother in case the father be deceased, or by his legally appointed guardian in case he has neither father nor mother living, and the parent or guardian presenting the boy must sign the prescribed "Consent, declaration and oath," which forms part of the shipping articles.

In cases where parents or guardians may, by reason of distance, infirmity or other causes, be unable to appear at the place of enlistment, they will, on written application to the commanding officer of either of the ships upon which enlistments are made, be furnished with the printed form of "Consent, declaration and oath," in duplicate, by executing which the enlistments will be perfected should the boys be accepted by the board of examining officers.

No allowance will be made for traveling expenses, whether accepted or not.

The board of examining officers will consist of the commanding officer, a line officer and the senior medical officer of the vessel.

All boys enlisting as apprentices must voluntarily sign an agreement to serve in the Navy until 21 years of age, which agreement must, before being signed, be carefully read and explained to each boy by the recruiting officer.

Apprentices are educated to fill the positions of seamen and petty officers. They cannot become commissioned officers.

Boys who have been convicted of crime cannot be enlisted.

When first enlisted and received on board ship apprentices will be furnished, free of cost, with an outfit of clothing not exceeding in value the sum of $45.

Boys will be enlisted as apprentices, third class, and receive $9 per month.

Apprentices, third class, who are qualified, after completing their tour of service in a cruising training ship, will be advanced to apprentices, second class, at $15 per month.

Apprentices, second class, who are qualified, will be advanced to apprentices, first class, at $21 per month, after they shall have served one year in cruising ships.

All apprentices receive one ration daily.

Parents or guardians are required to relinquish all claim to the services of apprentices, and applications for their discharge during minority will not be favorably considered, except under extraordinary circumstances.

Boys enlisted to serve until 21 years of age will not be permitted to allot any part of their pay to parents or guardians until they shall have been transferred to general cruising ships.

Apprentices will be transferred to fill vacancies in seagoing vessels as they become proficient and their services are required.

Upon the expiration of the enlistment of an apprentice he will, if recommended, receive an honorable discharge, and upon re-enlistment within four months from date of honorable discharge he will receive four months' extra pay of his rating when discharged, a continuous-service certificate and an addition of $1.36 per month to his pay.

Enlistments of apprentices are made on board the following-named ships: Constellation, Coaster's Harbor Island, near Newport, R.I.; Vermont, navy-yard, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Wabash, navy-yard, Boston, Mass.; Richmont, navy-yard, League Island, Pa.; Pensacola, U. S. Naval Training Station, San Francisco, Cal., and the Naval Recruiting Station, Masonic Temple Building, Chicago, Ills.

Apprentices are under the immediate supervision of the Bureau of Navigation. Information regarding enlistments will be furnished by that bureau or by the commanding officers of the above-named ships.

Apprentices may apply for discharge at any time during their enlistments, but in every case the consent of parent or guardian must be filed with the application.

The price of discharge during the first three months will be the whole amount of pay from date of enlistment to date of discharge, together with cost of outfit, less any amount due the applicant on the books of the paymaster. Apprentices discharged between the fourth and twelfth month of enlistment, inclusive, must refund one-half the cost of outfit. After the twelfth month, the cost of outfit will not be charged.

The people chose Electors on November, 6, 1900.

Congress canvassed vote February 13, 1901.

HOW MARYLAND HAS VOTED.

The electoral vote of Maryland has been successively cast as follows:

1789—George Washington, of Virginia, and Robert Hanson Harrison, of Maryland, 6 votes.

1793—George Washington and John Adams, 8 votes.

1797—John Adams, 7; Thos. Pinckney, 4; Thomas Jefferson, 4; Aaron Burr, 3; John Henry, of Maryland, 2.

1801—John Adams, 5; C. C. Pinckney, 5; Thomas Jefferson, 5; Aaron Burr, 5.

The tie vote of the Electors for Jefferson and Burr in 1801 threw the election for President into the House of Representatives and caused a change in the electoral system. The twelfth amendment to the Constitution was adopted, requiring the electors to vote separately for President and Vice-President, but not altering the system otherwise. This constitutional recognition of the existence of parties fixed the future nullity of the electors, and their nullity gradually obscured the position of the President of the Senate. Before 1801 no one knew positively what the vote of any elector was until the certificate was opened; after that year the votes of the Electors were really known before they were cast, and for several months before they were formally counted by the President of the Senate.

1805—Thomas Jefferson for President and George Clinton for Vice-President, 9 votes each; C. C. Pinckney and Rufus King, Federalists, 2 votes each.

1809—James Madison and George Clinton, 9; C. C. Pinckney and Rufus King, 2.

1813—James Madison and Elbridge Gerry, 6; De Witt Clinton and Jared Ingersoll, Federalists, 5.

1817—James Monroe and Daniel D. Tompkins, Democrats, 8.

1821—James Monroe, President, 11; Daniel D. Tompkins, Vice-President, 10; Robert Goodloe Harper, of Maryland, 1.

1825—For President, Andrew Jackson, 7; John Q. Adams, 3; William H. Crawford, 1. For Vice-President, John C. Calhoun, 10, and Andrew Jackson, 1.

1829—President, Andrew Jackson, 5; John Q. Adams, 6. Vice-President, John C. Calhoun, 5; Richard Rush, 6.

1833—President, Andrew Jackson, 3; Henry Clay, 5. Vice-President, Martin Van Buren, 3; John Sergeant, 5.

1837—William Henry Harrison and John Tyler, 10.

1841—William Henry Harrison and John Tyler, 10.

1845—Henry Clay and Th. Frelinghuysen, 8.

1849—Zachary Taylor and Millard Fillmore, 8.

1853—Franklin Pierce and William R. King, 8.

1857—Millard Fillmore and A. J. Donelson, 8.

At the election in 1856 Maryland was carried by the Know-Nothings, and was the only State to cast its electoral vote for Fillmore and Donelson.

1861—John C. Breckenridge and Joseph Lane, 8.

1865—Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson, 7.

1869—Horatio Seymour and Frank P. Blair, 7.

1873—Thomas A. Hendricks and B. Gratz Brown, 8.

Horace Greeley carried the State, but died before the Electoral College met.

1877—Samuel J. Tilden and Thomas A. Hendricks, 8.

1881—Winfield S. Hancock and William H. English, 8.

1885—Grover Cleveland and Thomas A. Hendricks, 8.

1889—Grover Cleveland and Allen G. Thurman, 8.

1893—Grover Cleveland and Adlai E. Stevenson, 8.

1897—William McKinley and Garrett A. Hobart, 8.

1901—William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt, 8.

ST. LOUIS WORLD'S FAIR OF 1903.

On December 20, 1901, ground was broken for a World's Fair at St. Louis, Mo., in the year 1903, to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the "Louisiana Purchase."

By treaty of April 30, 1803, with France, ratified by the United States Senate in October, Napoleon I transferred a territory, which he had acquired in America by secret treaty with Spain, comprising 1,182,000 square miles, to the public domain of the United States for $11,250,000.

This was the "Louisiana Purchase." The total sum paid by the United States for the territory was $15,000,000, and it included, in addition to the amount paid to France, $3,750,000, claims of American citizens against France, assumed by this country.

As the boundaries of the "Louisiana Purchase" were finally settled, they included the present States of Alabama and Mississippi, south of the thirty-first parallel; Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, except the southwestern portion, west of the one hundredth meridian and south of the Arkansas river; Indian Territory, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, west of the Mississippi river; the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Wyoming, between the Platt and Powder rivers, and Colorado, north of the Arkansas river and east of the Rocky Mountains.

The southern boundaries were determined by a treaty with Spain, concluded in February, 1819, by which also the Floridas were ceded to the United States. This did not include the territory south of 31° between the present boundaries of Louisiana and Florida, which, however, had been occupied by the United States since 1810, and which was added to the Territory of Mississippi in 1812. The United States claimed that the Louisiana purchase of 1803 covered this disputed tract, and held it in spite of the protests made by both France and Spain.

The site of the World's Fair of 1903, in the western part of the city of St. Louis, includes 1,200 acres, and the buildings and grounds of Washington University, valued at $3,000,000, where the administrative headquarters will be located. The largest of the exposition buildings will be devoted to agriculture and allied industries, and will cover an area of more than 32 acres. The plans call for other buildings, devoted to manufactures and liberal arts, mines, machinery, electricity, transportation, education and social economy, etc.

The financial subscriptions up to December, 1901, included the following items:

St. Louis, private.....	$5,000,000
St. Louis, municipality.....	5,000,000
Missouri, State.....	1,000,000
United States endorsement..	5,000,000
Government building.....	250,000
Total.....	$16,250,000

The management of the Exposition is in the hands of 93 directors, headed by Ex-Governor David R. Francis as president.

REPUBLIC OF CUBA.

On June 12, 1901, the Constitutional Convention of Cuba incorporated the provisions of the Platt amendment to the Act of Congress of the United States, March 2, 1901, in the Constitution of the Republic. These provisions are as follows:

1. That the Government of Cuba shall never enter into any treaty or other compact with any foreign power or powers which will impair or tend to impair the independence of Cuba, nor in any manner authorize or permit any foreign power or powers to obtain by colonization or for military or naval purposes or otherwise, lodgment in or control over any portion of said island.

2. That said Government shall not assume or contract any public debt, to pay the interest upon which, and to make reasonable sinking fund provision for the ultimate discharge of which the ordinary revenues of the island, after defraying the current expenses of government, shall be inadequate.

3. That the Government of Cuba consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty, and for discharging the obligations with respect to Cuba imposed by the treaty of Paris on the United States, now to be assumed and undertaken by the Government of Cuba.

4. That all acts of the United States in Cuba during its military occupancy thereof are ratified and validated, and all lawful rights acquired thereunder shall be maintained and protected.

5. That the Government of Cuba will execute, and, as far as necessary, extend, the plans already devised or other plans to be mutually agreed upon, for the sanitation of the cities of the island, to the end that a recurrence of epidemic and infectious diseases may be prevented, thereby assuring protection to the people and commerce of Cuba, as well as to the commerce of the Southern ports of the United States and the people residing therein.

6. That the Isle of Pines shall be omitted from the proposed constitutional boundaries of Cuba, the title thereto being left to future adjustment by treaty.

7. That to enable the United States to maintain the independence of Cuba, and to protect the people thereof, as well as for its own defense, the Government of Cuba will sell or lease to the United States lands necessary for coaling or naval stations at certain specified points, to be agreed upon with the President of the United States.

8. That by way of further assurance the Government of Cuba will embody the foregoing provisions in a permanent treaty with the United States.

A general election was held throughout the island December 31, 1901, for Governors of Provinces, Provincial Councilors, members of the House of Representatives, and Presidential and Senatorial Electors. On February 24, 1902, the several bodies of Electors will meet and elect a President, Vice-President and Senators of the Republic.

The following statement was adopted—December 18:

"This committee shall be known as the Industrial Department of the National Civic Federation:

"The scope and province of this department shall be to do what may seem best to promote industrial peace, to be helpful in establishing rightful relations between employers and workers; by its good offices to endeavor to obviate and prevent strikes and lockouts; to aid in renewing industrial relations where a rupture has occurred.

"That at all times representatives of employers and workers, organized, or unorganized, should confer for the adjustment of differences or disputes before an acute stage is reported and thus avoid or minimize the number of strikes or lockouts.

"That mutual agreements as to conditions under which labor shall be performed should be encouraged, and that when agreements are made the terms should be faithfully adhered to, both in letter and spirit, by both parties.

"This department, either as a whole, or a committee by it appointed, shall, when requested, act as a forum to adjust and decide upon questions at issue between workers and their employers, provided in its opinion the subject is one of sufficient importance. The department will not consider abstract industrial problems. It assumes no power of arbitration unless such powers be conferred by both parties to a dispute."

The plan was drawn up by Senator Hanna, Archbishop Ireland, Bishop Potter, Samuel Gompers, Lewis Nixon, John Mitchell, S. R. Callaway, J. Frank Sargent, Cornelius N. Bliss, Charles M. Schwab and Oscar S. Straus.

BASIS OF REPRESENTATION.

The basis and ratio for apportioning Representatives in Congress are founded on the population of the States, exclusive of the Territories.

From 1790 to 1850 the apportionment of Representatives in Congress was made by Congress, as at present. The law for taking the census in 1850 was intended to be permanent. Congress made a rule of apportionment, fixed the number of members of the House at 233, and directed the Secretary of the Interior thereafter to make the apportionment to each State. The apportionment under the census of 1860 was made under this law, but Congress, on March 4, 1862, fixed the total number of members, and the Secretary of the Interior apportioned the new quotas to the States. The apportionments under the census of 1870 and subsequently were made by Congress, so that the act of 1850 delegating that power to the Secretary of the Interior has been repealed by implication.

The act making the apportionment of Representatives in Congress, approved January 16, 1901, provides that after March 3, 1903, the House of Representatives of the United States shall be composed of 386 members.

It is also provided that whenever a new State is admitted to the Union, the Representative or Representatives assigned to it shall be in addition to the number of 386.

Each member of the House shall represent a district, composed of contiguous territory. But additional Representatives under this apportionment shall be elected by the State at large until the Legislature shall redistrict the State.

In the matter of the revision of the Confession of Faith, the General Assembly, in session at Philadelphia in May, 1901, took the following action: It appointed a committee of 21 members, with the following instructions:

1. To prepare and submit to the next General Assembly, for such disposition as may be judged to be wise, a brief statement of the Reformed faith, expressed as far as possible in untechnical terms. The said statement is to be prepared with a view to its being employed to give information and a better understanding of our doctrinal beliefs, and not with a view of its becoming a substitute for, or an alternative of, our Confession of Faith.

2. To prepare amendments to certain chapters of our Confession of Faith, either by modification of the text or declaratory statement, but so far as possible by declaratory statement, so as more clearly to express the mind of the church, with additional statements concerning the love of God for all men, missions and the Holy Spirit, it being understood that the revision shall in no way impair the integrity of the system of doctrine set forth in our Confession of Faith and taught in the Holy Scripture.

The following committee was appointed: Henry Collin Minton, D. D., chairman; Charles A. Dickey, D. D.; Rereick Johnson, D. D.; Samuel J. Niccolli, D. D.; Daniel W. Fisher, D. D.; William McKibbin, D.
